TURKISH PEOPLE ARE ON THE VERGE OF A CIVIL WAR

Conflict Between Mussulman Piety and Political Ideas of West Cause of Condition

AWAIT FAVORABLE TIME

Factions Will Start Conflict When Present Trouble Is Adjusted Sultan Will Remain

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 21.—The conflict between Mussulman piety and the political ideas of the west has brought the Turkish people to the verge of civil war. Seal for the faith has been unloosed and the adjustment of the sultan's relations to the committee of union and progress probably will only postpone the armed struggle between the deliverers of the ancient teachings of the prophets and those urging the teachings from western Europe.

The cabinet debated the situated for four hours today, giving special attention to the negotiations which the ministers have taken in hand on behalf of the sultan with the military members of the committee. The sultan's primary demand is to remain the constitutional sovereign with all the spiritual powers of the caliphate and liberal allowances for his household. He also asks for various minor guarantees which it would not be difficult to grant.

Must Submit Unconditionally.

The demand of the committee is that the sultan offer no resistance whatever and submit unconditionally.

The Salonika committee, which is the backbone of the whole progressive movement, is largely military and its most important civilian members are with the army. Some of the cabinet members, including Rifat Pasha, the foreign minister, are active constitutionalists.

Tewfik Pasha, the grand vizier, who personally is most agreeable to the sultan and to military men and who is looked upon as both benevolent and honest, has been engaged in negotiations for a compromise. He has not been able to proceed very far, owing to uncertain conditions. The grand vizier and his cabinet are prepared to resign if the committee asks their withdrawal. Indeed, they are anxious to resign and have only been held in office by the feeling that they may be able to avert a civil war or prevent acts of violence which would cause intervention by the powers.

The committee is without definite limits, its adherents are divided among themselves. The radical faction insists that there shall be no compromise; that the sultan must be deposed and a reasonable prince, for instance, Yussif Izzedin, should be named as his successor; that the whole administration should be cleaned, that no promise of Abdul Hamid's can be trusted and that to re-establish the system of 10 days ago would be to settle nothing.

Won't Depend Deposition.

The conservatives declare the deposition of the sultan would only be possible after severe fighting, that it is uncertain whether troops under the control of the committee would uphold such an act with their bayonets; that the soldiers of the first army corps to the number of 25,000 or 30,000 could be inflamed and break into open revolt and to demand too much means the failure of all.

"The sultan has got them to quarrel-

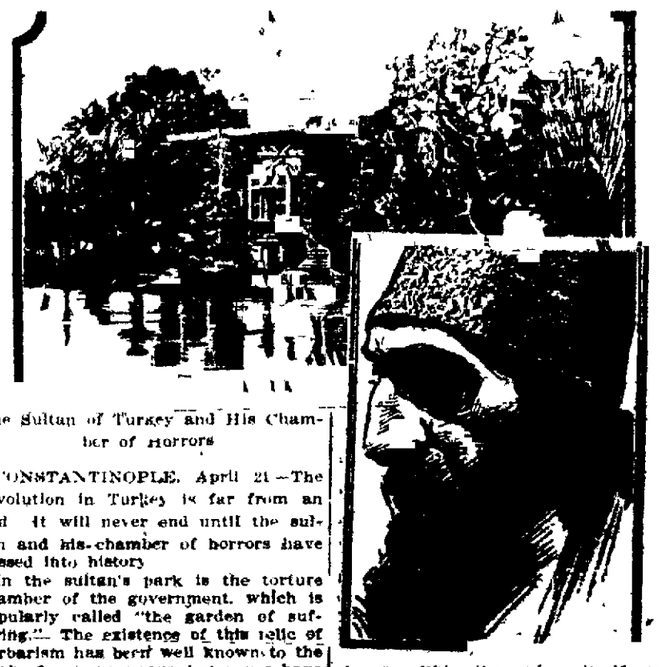
REAL CAUSE OF TROUBLE IN TURKEY IS SAID TO BE CRUELTY OF THE SULTAN



The Sultan of Turkey and His Chamber of Horrors

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 21.—The revolution in Turkey is far from an end. It will never end until the sultan and his chamber of horrors have passed into history.

In the sultan's park is the torture chamber of the government, which is popularly called "the garden of suffering." The existence of this relic of barbarism has been well known to the Turks for many years, but never have the horrors of it been depicted to the world so graphically as during the trial of Nedjib Pasha. The crime for which Nedjib Pasha is on trial is the torturing, even to death, of the suspected persons who came into his hands as the result of the bomb-throwing about four years ago, in which 70 persons were killed, the sultan himself being aimed at by the assassins. Among those captured were many innocent parties, but Nedjib's tortures were not spared pending an investigation. The tortures carried on almost within the palace itself, and sometimes under the personal supervision of the sultan, can scarcely be believed in a civilized land.

And so the torutres of Turkey have continued under the sultan. To be sure, his power has been curtailed by the constitution, but the young Turks, who seem to hold the power, are thoroughly incensed over these depredations, and these will have to be torn out by the root before Turkey will ever be at peace and advanced to her rightful position among civilized nations.

DYNAMITE WILL BE USED ON THE FALLS

JAM IN NIAGARA THREATENS MUCH PROPERTY.

Hidden Work Might Save Acres of Shoreline Along Upper Banks of the River.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., April 21.—Acting with the approval of the war department, dynamiters tomorrow will attempt to blow up the ice jam in the Niagara river. The jam is 60 feet high and 12 miles long.

Residents along the banks from Queenston to Lake Ontario are panic-stricken, fearing not so much a further rise in the river as the sudden breaking of the jam. The ice, which has uprooted huge trees and carried away docks and boat houses, would in a sudden rush erase acres of territory along the upper banks of the river. It was planned tonight to rush two carloads of dynamite to the scene and begin the work at dawn.

In the meantime the ice remained passive but threatening. The key to the jam apparently was the mass of ice lodged on the sandbar at the mouth of the river. Piled forward against this as well as latterly toward either bank, was a mammoth field of ice varying in thickness from 30 to 70 feet and intermingled with it great rocks, pieces of timber from shattered docks and the trunks of trees.

Between Lewiston and Queenston the mass was a splendid bit of polar scenery in miniature.

BRYAN MAY ENTER THE U. S. SENATE

DEMOCRATS IN CONGRESS VASTLY INTERESTED.

Some Are While Professing That They Would Be Glad, Say Yet They Consider

Special to The Gazette.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Democrats in Congress are vastly interested in the reported possibility that William J. Bryan may seek election to the Senate as the successor of Elmer J. Burkett, whose term expires March 2, 1911. A dispatch from Little Rock, Ark., quoted Mr. Bryan as saying that while he should prefer that some other Nebraska Democrat be nominated for the senatorship, he would not say that he would not be a candidate. Earlier dispatches from Nebraska had represented Mr. Bryan as an acknowledged aspirant for senatorial honors.

While Mr. Bryan's advent in the Senate would not be hailed as an unmixed blessing by all the Democratic members thereof, no doubt the rest of the country would take a great deal of pleasure in seeing Mr. Bryan a senator, and derive no little pleasure therefrom. Then if Mr. Roosevelt would only come to the Senate as the successor of Chauncey Depew, the satisfaction of the country would be complete.

If either Mr. Bryan or Mr. Roosevelt is under the impression that upon becoming a senator he would at once step into the leadership of his respective party in that chamber he would as well be prepared for a rude surprise. It is a pretty good guess that both Mr. Bryan and Mr. Roosevelt would have to undergo a course of hazing, though the dose would not be so severe, probably, as the one for instance which is being applied to La Follette of Wisconsin.

There are a number of Democratic senators who genuinely and sincerely acknowledge Bryan as the leader of their party but they are hopelessly in the minority. The average Democratic senator is deeply convinced that he himself would make a much better leader than Mr. Bryan. And how they would keep him smarting from pin pricks! Old hands at the senatorial business can annoy a newcomer in a thousand ways, and the newcomer isn't able to tell just where he is pricked or who pricked him.

Mr. Bryan's influence with the Democratic minority in the House would be quite another matter. Although a few House Democrats have repudiated the Nebraskan, it undoubtedly is true that a majority of them still look upon him as the greatest Democrat of his day and are willing still to follow his lead. Mr. Bryan's being in the Senate would make a lot of difference in the lower house of Congress.

Mr. Bryan will not come to the Senate however without having a manly fight on his hands. Elmer Burkett may not shine as one of the great white lights of the upper house, but he knows the game of politics and works at it twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, and all the weeks of the year. If there is a voter in Nebraska who hasn't received a personal letter from Burkett this year it's because the voter's card has been lost. Burkett writes letters at the slight provocation and when there is no provocation he writes anyhow.

BIG CANADIAN CRUISER FIRES ON AMERICAN FISHING VESSEL

U. S. Halibut Boat Is Seized by Dominion Ship for Alleged Poaching

SETTLEMENT HASTENED

Understanding Between This Country and England Regarding Hecate Strait Will Follow

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 21.—Seized for alleged poaching after a short encounter in which several shots were fired, the American halibut fishing schooner Charles Levi Woodbury was brought to this port today by the Dominion government cruiser Kestrel. The big cruiser fired four rounds from her machine guns and threatened to sink the American vessel unless her officers surrendered, which, however, they did not do until the craft was boarded by a force from the cruiser. The schooner was struck and slightly damaged.

Shots Set Business.

The action took place Sunday afternoon in northern waters alleged to be contiguous to Canada. Five bullets tore through the air in the direction of the Woodbury each time the machine gun was fired as the vessels headed at full speed from the west coast of Vancouver island and pointed towards the middle of the Pacific. Three of the rounds were merely intended to call attention to the command to heave to which had been issued to the American schooner. But the last series of shots meant business. The gun was pointed at the fish hold which was then at a distance of about 200 yards and still making for the open sea as rapidly as possible. The bullets, which were aimed high, ripped the mainsail of the schooner, and one or two knocked splinters off the main mast.

Captain Sinclair feared that he would be sunk right there if he did not stop. At the same moment the second gun of the Kestrel was swung across her deck to get into range of the American vessel. The engines were then stopped and the crew, cowed by British bullets, hauled down. But even then the American captain would not willingly surrender. He declined to fasten a hawser aboard his vessel, but a few minutes later an officer and three men from the Kestrel boarded the Woodbury and took charge.

Says He Was Civil.

Captain Newcomb, of the Kestrel, declares that if he ever had a clear case against an American vessel this is the one. Early Sunday afternoon he declares the Kestrel was steaming in from Quatsino Sound on the west coast when he espied an American vessel fishing between East and West Haycock islands. These islands lie about ten miles off Cape Scott, the northernmost point of Vancouver Island. The islands are themselves five miles apart, so that from Captain Newcomb's figuring it is impossible that the American boat could be more than two and a half miles from either shore. As a matter of fact, Newcomb says that when he first observed her, the vessel was within a mile of East island.

By the time she had picked up her dories she was within a short distance of West island. Captain Sinclair of the Woodbury apparently did not no-

REGISTERED MAIL PACKAGE IS LOST

DROPPED FROM UNION PACIFIC TRAIN IN WYOMING.

Many Packages Among Pouch Which Number 20 Fell Out by Jolting of Train.

DENVER, April 21.—Chief Inspector Cochran of the Denver postoffice announced tonight that a mail pouch containing 29 registered packages had been lost from a Union Pacific train between Green River and Bryan, Wyo., Sunday night. Upon comparison with the records of the San Francisco post office, it was discovered that three packages of unsigned bank notes, aggregating $5,000, consigned by the treasury department to California banks were among the contents of the missing pouch. The notes need only the signature of the California bank officials to become legal tender.

There were five mail clerks in the car when the pouch was lost, but the loss was not discovered for some time. The pouch is supposed to have fallen from the car through a door jolted open on the heavy grade.

One of the packages was consigned to the First National bank of Palo Alto, Cal., and contained $10 and $20 notes, numbered U324232 to 324247 amounting to $300.

The second package, aggregating $5,400 in $50 and $100 notes and numbered B627533 to 627548, was consigned to a San Jose bank.

The third package, of $1,000 in $10 and $20 notes numbered from H614342 to 614377, was addressed to a bank in Santa C. M.

FIVE-MINUTE TORNADO KILLS SIX PEOPLE IN CLEVELAND

Fifty Persons Injured and Property Damaged to Extent of Million Dollars

OTHER TOWNS VISITED

Northern Ohio Swept by Disastrous Storm—One Killed in Ashtabula by Falling of Church.

CLEVELAND, April 21.—Six persons were killed, nine perhaps fatally hurt, at least 50 less seriously injured and a million dollars' worth of property destroyed in a tornado which swept through Cleveland and northern Ohio today.

The dead.

JASPER CROMWELL, killed by being blown from a train at the Cleveland Furnace company plant.

MRS. OLIVE PHALEN, a nurse at the State hospital, skull crushed by a stone blown from the top of a building.

UNIDENTIFIED WOMAN, blown into a pond at Wade Park and drowned.

JOSEPH VESSLA, killed by falling smokestack.

LOUIS PIETRO, crushed by falling roof; died in hospital.

JOSEPH SLAZEK, struck in head by flying timber, died in hospital.

Feared Death; Suicided.

Fred Grugel, committed suicide during the height of the storm because he was afraid he was about to be killed. He rushed into a barn out of the rain and drank carbolic acid.

The injured.

Miss Gladys May, injured by falling shed.

Three men and a sister, a teacher, are reported injured in the ruins of St. Stanislaus's church.

Fifteen men are reported hurt at the plant of the Wellman-Seaver-Morgan Engineering company.

Four men were injured by the falling of a roof at the plant of the Standard Tool company.

[illegible]

The storm arose suddenly and lasted just five minutes. At 12:30 the sun was shining brightly. At 12:32 the city was dark. From the northeast of the lake came a 86-mile gale and heavy rain. People were blown off their feet and hurled against buildings, in many cases to be struck down by bricks and timbers which filled the air.

Roofs were lifted off houses, walls hurled down, strongly-braced smokestacks picked up and chimneys demolished. Twelve school buildings were damaged. Many pupils had remarkable escapes, but none was seriously hurt.

Firemen and policemen turned out to assist the people whose homes had been wrecked. So seriously was the telephone service crippled that it was impossible to get connection with either the police or fire headquarters.

No damage was done to boats on the lake.

St. Stanislaus's church was demolished at a loss of $195,000.

The roof of the city tuberculosis sanitarium and the framework of the new exposition building were carried away.

ASHTABULA, Ohio, April 21.—One man was killed, a dozen persons injured and much property damaged in a 10-minute tornado which struck Ashtabula and vicinity today.

R. T. Woodworth sought refuge in sheds of St. Mathew's Episcopal church, Plymouth, and was caught when the church crumbled before the gale. He was killed outright. The church was totally wrecked.

GOVERNOR LILLEY OF CONNECTICUT, DEAD

Was Prominent Member of Congress for Several Years. Stood Alone for What He Believed Right

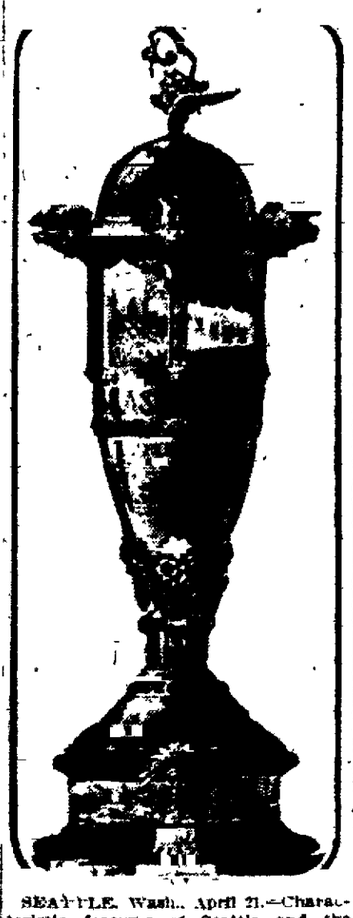
HARTFORD, Conn., April 21.—George Leavens Lilley, governor of Connecticut, died at the executive mansion tonight, after fighting disease four weeks.

As soon as the news was spread, the fire bells of Hartford sounded the dge of the dead governor 49 and a detachment of the first company, governor's foot guards, was mustered immediately to go on duty at the executive mansion.

Mr. Lilley commanded notice by an attack upon a bill which was aimed to give a corporation authoritative franchise rights for supplying electricity in the Hawaiian islands while he was a member of Congress. Alone, he objected to the committee's report, and later the bill was amended.

In other sessions he attacked the free distribution of seeds by the agricultural department, railroad mail contracts, and the print-paper combine. When he became a member of the committee on naval affairs he criticised the methods employed at navy yards and the location of many of the yards. Then he attacked the submarine boat contracts. About a year ago Lilley brought about an inquiry into the submarine situation during which he bore the brunt of a fierce attack.

$2,000 AUTO TROPHY FOR THE WINNER OF LONG RACE



SEATTLE, Wash., April 21.—Characteristic features of Seattle and the event are incorporated in the design selected for the M. Robert Guggenheim trophy for the automobile contest from New York to Seattle. Shreve & Co. of San Francisco were successful in having their design accepted out of 116 submitted from the larger cities of the country.

The prize trophy stands 42 inches in height and its weight in silver and gold is estimated at more than 500 ounces. The cover of the cup represents the northern hemisphere, showing the continent in 18-kt. gold. Upon the hemisphere poised on a flying wheel, is the figure of Victory. The figure is draped with a banner, on which are the words "New York to Seattle."

Polar bears, suggestive of Alaska, are shown at the base of the hemisphere. Immediately below are four panels, encircling the cup, in the panels are views of Seattle and the exposition grounds. Separating the panels are totem poles in colored metal.

Below the name of the cup, and on the base, is a wreath of laurel and gold sprays, holding a large nugget of Alaska gold. Below the panels are words, "Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition," done in Alaska gold nuggets. The lower portion of the cup is left for the inscription.

The rhododendron, state flower of Washington, modeled in full relief, is shown at the stem of the base, above the pedestal. This rests on classic pillars on the base.

Curly redwood is used in making the pedestal on which the cup is mounted. This is partly encircled by a silver band showing a sketch of racing automobiles. At each corner of the base, and standing out beyond the cup proper, are four busts of Indian chiefs of the north, with the bust of Chief Seattle showing prominently.

The automobiles leave New York June 1, the date the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition will open its gates to the world, and the trophy will be displayed in Seattle several weeks before the big machines are expected in Seattle from their dash across the continent. While nearly 200 designs were submitted, and New York, Chicago and Philadelphia firms entered into the contest, the San Francisco firm furnished the most characteristic design, and California, which gave the exposition its most beautiful state building, will now furnish the trophy for the greatest endurance race in history.

The San Francisco firm will receive $2,000, the contract price for making the trophy, besides a prize of $250 for the best design. The trophy will be awarded to the winner as soon as the automobile reaches the exposition grounds.

TARIFF BILL IS BEING READ BY PARAGRAPH IN SENATE

Frequent Interruptions by Members to Discuss Amendments Delay Progress.

DINGLEY LAW FAVORED

Its Provisions Regarding Drawbacks Preferred to House Recommendations, Aldrich Declares.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Substantial progress was made by the Senate today in considering the tariff bill. No senator being prepared to speak on the bill as a whole, the reading of the measure by paragraphs was begun. The various items in the chemical schedules were passed over for further consideration.

The reading was frequently interrupted by the discussion of amendments, and only 18 pages of the bill were disposed of. Senator Cummins presented his income tax provision, and discussed it at length.

On Mr. Aldrich's suggestion it was agreed that any amendment to which there should be objection should be passed over with the understanding that any senator might move at any time to take up any paragraph after it had been read.

Mr. Dolliver suggested that the reciprocity and retaliatory clauses and the drawback and the administrative features of the bill should be reported by the finance committee before the bill was considered.

Rights to Suggest Amendments.

After various questions by senators concerning their right at any time to suggest amendments to the bill the reading was begun. As it was proceeded with questions, they were frequently asked by senators concerning the various items of the bill.

Mr. Dolliver criticised the action of the committee in increasing the Payne rates on manufactured celluloid articles to the existing Dingley rates. Messrs. Aldrich and Root explained that the manufacturers of celluloid goods in the United States are in danger of being driven out of business by cheap manufactures in Japan. Mr. Smoot said two large factories are being built in that country.

Customs Court.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The Senate committee on finance today practically perfected an amendment to the tariff bill providing for a customs court to hear cases appealed from the boards of appraisers. The court will consist of three members, to receive salaries of $10,000 a year each. Headquarters will be in the New York district, but the court may sit in any of the other eight districts whenever required.

The committee will, according to a statement made in the Senate today by Senator Aldrich, probably recommend the restoration of the Dingley law provision regarding drawbacks in place of the House paragraph on that subject. The question came up in connection with a question asked by Senator Nelson as to what disposition had been made of the provision.

"Yes," replied Mr. Aldrich, "but there is a general feeling that it will not do to accept the House provision, and I think I violate no confidence when I express the opinion that the committee will recommend a return to the Dingley law on that subject in preference to the provision of the pending bill."

He volunteered the statement that every member of the committee opposed the House provision which eliminated the identification clause of the existing law.

ROOSEVELT LANDS AT MOMBASA IN DELUGE OF RAIN; HUNT CAN'T BEGIN TOO SOON

MOMBASA, B. E. A., April 21.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived here this evening on board the steamer Admiral. Mr. Roosevelt was in the best of health, as were all the members of his party. The Admiral entered Kilindini harbor flying the American flag at her fore and main masts. She dipped the German ensign while passing the British cruiser Pandora, whose rails and masts were manned by cheering sailors.

The people of Mombasa were in a great state of expectancy throughout the day and the first word of the sighting of the ship brought them in crowds to vantage points, where they might catch a glimpse of the distinguished visitor.

The Admiral, however, came slowly up to the harbor, and it was dark when the ex-President, accompanied by his son, and the captain, made a landing. They were brought ashore in the commandant's surf boat and carried to a place of shelter in chairs on natives' shoulders.

Glad to Get Ashore.

There was a deluge of rain, but Mr. Roosevelt said he was glad to get ashore in any weather. He added that the start for the hunting grounds could not come a minute too soon. The governor's aide boarded the Admiral and extended a welcome to Mr. Roosevelt who received another cordial greeting on shore from the provincial commissioner who conducted him to the government house.

Mr. Roosevelt seemed highly pleased when he observed the military guard drawn up. The crowds on shore pressed eagerly forward to see him. These were composed of Europeans, Indians and natives and presented a picturesque appearance. The Admiral left Aden a week ago and the voyage to this port was interrupted only by a brief stop at Mogadiscio, in Italian Somaliland.

Trip Without Incident.

The trip was without special incident, the most interesting feature being the captain's dinner to Mr. Roosevelt on Tuesday. In toasting Mr. Roosevelt, the captain wished him godspeed and a safe return to the United States. Mr. Roosevelt replied in English, German and French. The party had intended to remain in Mombasa two days, but the foods have been heavy and a change was deemed advisable. The special train which will carry Mr. Roosevelt and his companions to Sir Alfred Pease's ranch on the Athi river will leave tomorrow afternoon. The governor of the protectorate, Frederick J. Jackson, entertained Mr. Roosevelt at dinner. Tomorrow morning the Roosevelt party will be taken in carriages about the town and as far as possible the governor and his associates will meet the special instructions from King Edward to show every consideration to the distinguished travelers.

F. C. Selous the noted English hunter was a guest at the dinner. He will accompany Mr. Roosevelt on his first shooting expedition at the Athi [illegible]

RUSSIA WORRIED OVER THE SITUATION IN PERSIA; INTERVENTION IS NEAR

ST. PETERSBURG, April 21.—The situation in Persia engrosses the attention of the Russian foreign officers, the Turkish crisis assuming a position of secondary importance. In spite of the prompt compliance by the shah with Russia's ultimatum that a six-day armistice must be declared at Tabriz for the purpose of providing food for the foreigners and noncombatants, it is felt that intervention in Persia cannot long be postponed. The armistice will be utilized by Russia in adequate preparation for the military occupation of northern Persia for a considerable period.

The foreign office tonight sent an urgent [illegible] asking that the troops destined for the invasion be concentrated on the immediate frontier without delay, ready to cross at a moment's notice. Cavalry will make a forced march to Tabriz. All steps have been taken in full accord with Great Britain, which has given Russia a free hand.

It is not expected by the foreign office that any international complications will follow the killing of M. C. Baskerville, an American school teacher. The American consul had forewarned Baskerville that he was forfeiting his right to American protection by joining the Nationalists. The British consul gave similar warning to the English correspondent, Moore, who is now a lieutenant. In view of the critical Persian situation, M. Iswolsky, the Russian minister, has said p[illegible] his departure abroad.

City Decidedly Bored

LONDON April 21 —One of the Constantinople correspondents describing the city as becoming decidedly bored at the slow movements of the investing army

With another of the sudden characteristics of the Turkish crisis public opinion seems to incline to the belief that the sultan will after all be retained on the throne with proper precautions to safeguard the constitution In many of the special dispatches the delay in the occupation of the capital is attributed to negotiations to this end between the government and the leaders of the Young Turks

So many conflicting reports are in circulation that it is impossible to ascertain anything definite The important news tonight is that the fleet will be sent from Constantinople ostensibly for maneuvers as the attitude of the navy has been doubtful This will remove a source of possible danger

TARIFF BILL IS BEING READ BY PARAGRAPH

made to the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill providing for a graduated income tax, which he believes would produce $40,000,000 revenue Mr Cummins pointed out that it differs in some important particulars from either the law of 1894 or the amendment offered by Senator Bailey It exempts incomes below $5,000 and authorizes the reduction of that amount from every dutiable income The rate provided for is as follows

Upon incomes not exceeding $10,000, 2 per cent not exceeding $20,000 2½ per cent not exceeding $40,000 3 per cent, not exceeding $60,000, 3½ per cent not exceeding $80,000 4 per cent, not exceeding $100,000 5 per cent upon all incomes exceeding $100,000 6 per cent

Mr Cummins believes that the graduated tax so provided for will produce a somewhat less revenue than a flat tax of 2 per cent. The duty is to be levied only upon individual incomes He treats corporations as mere instrumentalities for individual profit and the chief reason for not including corporations is that to put a tax upon the incomes of corporations is to tax those who are stockholders of the corporations, but whose total incomes would not reach $5,000, precisely as though they had dutiable incomes

How Graded Tax Works Out.

This would be the result with a flat rate, but he points out that when the graduated tax is employed it is obvious that the individual income can alone be considered otherwise, he says, the man with the lowest dutiable income would in so far as it is derived from a corporation, oftentimes bear the maximum rate levied upon the highest increase The chief object of a graduated income tax law is to put the burden of government upon those who are best able to bear it, and to do so it is necessary to put a high rate upon the large incomes than upon small ones.

The amendment proposed by Mr. Cummins further provides that all corporations shall make annual reports, showing their gross and net earnings and the amounts paid as interest and dividends and the persons to whom payments are made, and also the names of all officers and employes receiving $5,000 a year or more In this way the undivided profits of a corporation are ascertained, and the distributed share of each stockholder charged as a part of his income.

Situation of Affairs Which Had Infested Hall, Regarded as Ill Omen by Superstitious.

WASHINGTON, April 21 —On the eve of the battle of the ballots for officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the contestants are concentrating their forces and each claiming victory Both Mrs Scott of Illinois and Mrs. Story of New York are confident of the outcome

A dramatic feature of today's meeting was the frank statement of Miss Jeannette Richards, the official reader, that she alone was responsible for the 'blunder' of last night which had placed Mrs Story Mrs McLean and the congress in an awkward position, resulting in the refusal of the president general to recognize Mrs Story in order to submit her report as regent of New York

The explanation which was accompanied by an open apology, was greeted with applause and what promised to develop into a most disagreeable situation turned out to be a genuine love feast for both Mrs McLean and Mrs Story expressed themselves as entirely satisfied

The superstitious persons, however, are tonight predicting all sorts of dire happenings tomorrow and it is all because the English sparrows which had infested the hall since the congress convened have been destroyed. During the afternoon recess, men armed with air rifles picked off one by one the little doves of peace, as they had come to be known, and their merry chirps sounded no more No official was willing to admit that she gave the execution order

The annual contributions for Continental hall fairly swamped the president general's desk The actual sums handed in, together with the pledges announced, aggregated about $50,000

The day's events were brought to a close by a reception in honor of the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution

ROOSEVELT QUITE POPULAR ABOARD THE HAMBURG

SEATTLE, Wash., April 21.—"Mr. Roosevelt is a wonderful man. He seems to be in every place aboard ship at one time. The only part of the ship that I believe he has not been in is aloft in the rigging."

This is the way young Albert K. Cody describes his own impressions of the former President of the United States, with whom he was a fellow passenger on the steamship Hamburg from New York to Naples. The Seattle lad and Kermit Roosevelt became pals aboard the ship. Mr. and Mrs. Cody have received a letter from Albert, dated March 30, at Punta del Gada, Azores, in which he says:

"Kermit and I struck up a friendly acquaintance at our first meeting and we have spent a great many hours together on shipboard. People in going into the dining room for their meals will not think of sitting down until Roosevelt shows up, not because he is a former President of the United States, but because they all like him personally. He may have lots of enemies on land but he has not any on water aboard the steamship Hamburg."

IN WILT OF ADVICE.

From the Washington Star.

"You have been receiving a great many suggestions from your constituents."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, a little wearily.

"And what are your views on the tariff?"

"My views on the tariff change so rapidly that they could only be expressed by a moving picture film."

LAND TO BE THROWN OPEN TO SETTLEMENT

WILL AFFORD HOMES FOR MANY THOUSANDS.

By Complying With Homestead Provisions Persons May Possess Farms.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

During the current year it is estimated that nearly 350,000 acres of irrigated land will be thrown open to settlement by the government. This will afford homes for 175,000 people, as irrigated land is supposed to be capable of supporting one person to every two acres. The irrigated lands available to the settler this year are scattered all the way from the Canadian boundary to the Mexican border, embracing all kinds of climate and farms suitable for growing everything from hardy alfalfa and northern cereals to semi-tropical fruits.

All that is necessary for a man to do to obtain possession of his share of this land is to reside on it and otherwise to comply with the provisions of the homestead law. The land will cost him practically nothing, except a small fee for entry. He will have to pay, however, for the water right to irrigate his farm, which ranges in cost from $35 to $50 per acre. This can be paid in 10 annual installments if he chooses. The price depends upon the cost of constructing, operating and maintaining the government reclamation plant.

Realizing that the most important problem before the nation today is that of providing homes for the people, Uncle Sam aims to make it as easy as possible for his people to obtain such homes. That the tendency of population to crowd into the cities is not healthy was long ago recognized by statesmen, and one result was the enactment of the reclamation law in 1902. The sponsors of that legislation and the promoters of the work that has been carried on under it for seven years have made the not extravagant claim that the law, if carried out to the fullest extent and thoroughly understood by the people, will solve the home problem for some years to come.

People Appreciative.

That the people appreciate what is being done for them and are anxious to take advantage of the opportunities afforded is shown by the thousands of inquiries being received at Washington. The land hunger is so widespread that it is almost impossible for the government to keep the supply of irrigated lands equal to the demand. No sooner is an area irrigated than there is a great rush of applications for farms. That is what is expected in the case of all the openings this year.

The federal government has already invested $42,000,000 in the reclamation of arid lands and about $90,000,000 more of private capital has been invested for the same purpose. With these enormous expenditures 11,000,000 acres of land have been reclaimed. It is estimated that there is enough water in the country, if it is properly used, to irrigate 30,000,000 acres more. At the rate of one inhabitant to every two acres, this vast area of arid land will furnish homes for 15,000,000 people, twice the present population of the great state of New York and five times as many people as lived in the 13 original colonies when they won their independence.

If all of the land to be irrigated produces crops at the same rate as that now under irrigation, which is upwards of $259,000,000 worth annually, the total area reclaimed and to be reclaimed would produce crops valued at a round billion dollars a year. So far but a small beginning has been made by the government, water being available for only 1,000,000 acres. Of the 30 great reclamation projects inaugurated under the Newlands law, only two have been wholly completed. Others are in various stages of progress, the lands being opened to settlement as the work proceeds.

Montana Vast of Activity.

In no part of the arid west is more active development going on at the present time than in the state of Montana, whose vast areas of public domain and splendid water supply afford unusual opportunities for establishing ideal farming communities. One project is already completed, six others are under construction in that state, and it is expected that work will commence on two more projects during the summer. The ultimate development of these works will add a crop producing area to Montana larger than the entire state of Rhode Island. During the year 1909 it is expected that no less than 145,000 acres of land, covered by five reclamation projects, will be thrown open to settlement.

The farm unit is comparatively small in each case, being from 40 to 80 acres of irrigable land. At great expense the government is laying out town sites so that the farmers will be within easy reach of churches, schools, stores and railroad stations from which their crops can be shipped. The government will permit men without much ready money to work out the cost of the water rights for the farms they enter upon by assisting in the construction of canals, ditches, dams and other works. If a would-be settler is not lucky enough to secure land from the government there is always opportunity for him to buy some surplus ground at reasonable prices from farmers who sent in early applications.

Ready for Settlers.

There will be 17,000 acres ready for settlement this year under the Huntley project, near Billings, Montana. Situated 3,000 feet above the sea and watered by the Yellowstone river, this land is remarkably fertile, producing alfalfa, grains, corn, fruit and vegetables. A novel feature of the construction work on this project is the pumping station near Ballardine, where the fall of water from the main canal is made to lift a portion of the water to a canal on a higher level. Vertical turbines and centrifugal pumps are mounted on the same shaft and the operation is nearly automatic.

An equal area of land is being opened under the Sun River project, Montana. Already the influx of farmers has been so great that there are [illegible] to be splendid opportunities for the business man, merchant and manufacturer. Many of the farmers are meeting with such success that their friends in the east are going westward to join them. Another Montana project just open to settlement is the Lower Yellowstone, where 66,000 acres of land lying near the junction of the Yellowstone with the Missouri river, is rapidly being filled upon. The man who wants a home there will have to hurry.

A little farther south 20,000 acres will be opened during May in the Shoshone project, Wyoming, near Buffalo Bill's favorite old stamping ground. In order to complete this project a dam 328 feet high—the highest in the world—was built, a road eight miles long, and a tunnel three miles in length were cut through the solid rock, and hundreds of miles of canals were dug.

Land in Colorado.

Still farther south, 15,000 acres will be available for settlers in the Uncompahgre project, Colorado. Forty thousand acres will be added to the irrigable area in the so-called Truckee-Carson project, Nevada, water being taken from Lake Tahoe under a special agreement with a private irrigation concern. A tract of 17,000 acres in southeastern California, under the Yuma project, will be opened in October next. There tropical fruits can be grown almost without cultivation.

The Yuma lands lie on an Indian reservation and a small payment must be made to the red men owners in order to obtain possession. This is true also in the Huntley project, Montana, which was part of the Crow Indian reservation. As fast as Congress authorizes it, the reclamation service is placing Indian lands under irrigation. This year, besides those just mentioned, lands having an area of nearly 150,000 acres, located on Indian reservations in Montana and Washington, will be thrown open to the settler and they are expected to be entered upon quickly, as they embrace some of the most valuable fruit land in the world. The construction of irrigation works on the Fort Peck Indian reservation, Montana, will be commenced as soon as possible.

The latest project to receive the approval of the government involves the reclamation of 50,000 acres of fine fruit lands in Grand Valley, Colorado. It will take several years to complete the works, which will include a canal 60 miles long, pumping stations, etc., to irrigate land on several levels. The Grand Valley apple and peach orchards are world famous, the fruit growers getting $2 a box for their product. There are marvelous tales from Grand Valley of oats growing eight feet high and yielding 125 bushels per acre, of potatoes producing 400 bushels to the acre, and of cantaloupes and vegetables, planted between rows of growing trees, which pay for the farm before orchards bear.

Government Assistance.

The government is extending the blessings of irrigation at public expense to the people of Porto Rico. A $3,000,000 bond issue has been sold there and the proceeds are being devoted to the construction of irrigation works. As a sort of supplement to irrigation, dry farming is practiced extensively in the west on land which cannot be watered. Under a new law 320 acres of land in Wyoming are to be thrown open at once to settlers, who will be permitted to acquire 320-acre homesteads for dry farming purposes. It is not known how successful this experiment will be.

While the government encourages home-building it objects to frauds on the public domain in violation of the reclamation law or any other statute. A million dollars is now being spent by the general land office and 200 special agents are being employed to investigate and prosecute the guilty persons in 22,000 cases of alleged land frauds involving $11,000,000 worth of lands. The department of justice is prosecuting 22,000 defendants in Oklahoma in an effort to recover several million acres of land alleged to have been fraudulently acquired.

A few years ago one had only to travel westward a short journey to see nothing but public land from skyline to skyline. Today bands of steel extend from ocean to ocean, the Great American desert is fast disappearing under the onslaught of irrigation and dry farming, and cities and towns and wide green oases dot the landscape. The property of the nation, which at one time embraced nearly 2,000,000,000 acres of land, has been reduced to something like half a billion acres. Out of our free lands have arisen 20 vigorous commonwealths and an agricultural empire that is the marvel of the world today.

SPORTS FOR FANS

THREE OF DETROIT'S GREAT PITCHING STAFF

Manager Jennings feels pretty good over his pitching department. Wild Bill Donovan who still insists that he would have won that game if they had not stopped to chew the rag, and thereby let him cool off, is back in the fold. Sommers is there too. Willetts who made good last year and Mullin, who won the only game for Detroit in the World's series, are also on deck. All together, it looks very good to Detroit fans and to the enthusiastic manager.

KENTUCKY RACE MECCA

"Sensation Flock to Blue Grass State. Derby Candidates Lively. Warfield a Favorite.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 21.—The law creating the Kentucky state racing commission, having been declared unconstitutional by Judge Matt Harbeson, Kentucky promises to become the mecca for thoroughbreds this season, and plans already are afoot to conduct the sport throughout the spring and summer on various tracks at Lexington, Louisville, and Latonia.

Attorneys for the racing commission will carry the case to the court of appeals for final adjudication, but it is not believed the case can reach the higher court in time to have a decision given before next fall.

The Kentucky Derby field this spring presents more class than it has before in a generation, at least. Competent critics say it is an open race. During the week Warfield, a chestnut colt, by Nasturtium—Detection and owned by W. J. Young, gave a demonstration at Montgomery Park at Memphis which indicates that the entrants are a superior type this year. With weight up this colt breezed a mile through the Mississippi river sand in 1:44 flat without having been urged. Roger Respass witnessed the trial, and said the colt was hard held. In his opinion this is the one the others have to beat when the Derby is decided.

Young has another Derby eligible—Direct, a chestnut colt by Don de Oro—Froken—which negotiated a mile in 1:43 after a mighty effort. Young, in a letter to Louisville friends, expresses the belief that in Warfield he has the winner of the Derby.

Twenty-four are qualified starters in the Derby. Fifteen of this number started as 2-year-olds, but many of these are still maidens. T. M. Greene, Michael Angelo, Dr. Barkley, Winterstein and Friend Harry, on past performance, figure to have a chance.

BIG LEAGUE PLAYERS TRAVEL MANY MILES

NEW YORK, April 21.—In arranging the schedules for the league games this season the schedule makers managed to decrease the average a trifle. Probably the railroads, hotel keepers, and baggage haulers will draw just as much money out of the baseball clubs' treasuries, as it is likely the number of players and camp followers that will be carried on the various trips will be larger than ever before.

The number of miles each club will have to travel and trips to made follows:

REALIZES HIS RIVALS

By Frank L. Chance

Chicago Cubs Manager.

Of course I am anxious that the Chicago team shall win the championship for the fourth time in succession and the world's championship for the third time in succession. I feel sure it would create a new record. I believe that New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg are the teams that we have to beat. New York will be after us all the way. It is safe to beat about the bush in any effort to discount the strength of the Giants. They've got a good team. So they will be in the thick of the fight every minute from the beginning of the coming season.

COLO. COLLEGE TIGERS CANCEL MINES GAME

Will Not Play Ball With Golden Athletic Control Question Causes Break.

With the School of Mines in the role of attentive audience, Colorado College, Boulder and Denver universities and the Aggies are dividing honors in a playlet entitled, "You Can't Play in My Ballyard Any More." The Tigers assumed a leading part in the play yesterday, when the Colorado College athletic board voted to cancel the baseball game scheduled with the Mines for Saturday. Boulder took similar action several days ago.

The Mines has not yet placed athletics under faculty control, and for that reason cannot meet the Tigers. Four Colorado colleges having faculty control. Dean E. S. Parsons of Colorado College, chairman of the state faculty athletic conference, last night said:

"The best of feeling exists between the School of Mines and the other Colorado colleges. The other schools believe that the rulings of the athletic conference are the only means of saving amateur athletics in colleges in the state, and for that reason will decline to meet schools not having athletic control. Denver university has faculty control of athletics, and has accepted the rules of the conference, although not a member of said conference.

Manager Merrill of the Tigers is trying to arrange a game with Sacred Heart college of Denver for Saturday afternoon at Washburn field.

KENTUCKY DERBY SURE OF ELEVEN STARTERS

Blooded Horses Will Have Their Inning in Bluegrass Classic May 3.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 21.—With the racing game fallen upon evil ways in other states and thousands of blooded horses become virtually wanderers from the big courses, where they were wont to display their speed, the thirty-fifth Kentucky Derby, to be run at Churchill Downs, May 3, has regained much of its old-time prominence.

The following 11 horses are regarded as certain starters:

Maud, bay colt, Count Schemberg-Rochelle II, J. N. Camden owner. McAndrews, bay colt, Scintillant-The Lady; W. H. Fizer, owner. Norbit Hynes, bay colt, Ormonde-Scarfpin, Respass (F. S.) and Kirby, owners. Sir Cassby, brown colt, Sir Dixon-Algie, M. T. F. Hayes owner. Warfield, chestnut colt, Nasturtium-Detection, J. H. Lesh, owner. Campeon, bay colt, Alvescot-Florite, George J. Long owner. Ada Meade, brown filly, Contestor-Hide and Seek, J. C. Milam and Co., owners. Wintergreen, bay colt, Dick Welles-Winter, J. B. Respass, owner. Friend Harry, chestnut gelding, Orlando-Alice Brand; Edward Alvey, owner. Sempronium, brown colt, Sempronius-Teddy Smith, W. E. Applegate owner. Direct, chestnut colt, Don DeOro-Emma Pickwick, W. J. Young, owner.

"Wintergreen" has thus far ruled favorite in the betting of which there has been considerable. The arrival of Friend Harry from the Pacific coast, where he has shown remarkable private trials is expected to place him equal favorite with Wintergreen, however. All the candidates regarded as certain starters have been well played to date, all have shown fit to race and the good training weather has ripened them early. Campeon is regarded as the dark horse while Milam on the strength of his spring work may carry a good money stake. Wintergreen or Friend Harry. Should the track be muddy Milam would probably be installed favorite. The value of the stake will be the largest ever. Stalls for 1,100 horses already have been engaged and about 300 more are expected.

GLIDDEN TOUR ROUTE IS BEING MARKED OUT

Pathfinder Car Has Covered One-Fourth of Course. Two Stops Are Planned.

Almost one fourth of the entire route over which the Glidden tour contestants are to go was laid out by the pathfinder car, in charge of Dal Lewis, during the first week of his work starting from Detroit on April 12. Lewis stopped the first night in Jackson and the second night in Kalamazoo, which is to be the first night stop of the contestants. On the third day, Lewis made South Bend, and on Thursday reached Chicago the second night stop of the real tour. From the Windy City the pathfinding car proceeded to Madison, Wis., which is to be the third overnight stop.

The route laid out thus far will be new to the Glidden tourists of former years excepting the small stretch between South Bend, Ind., and Chicago. This ground was covered on the tour of 1907, but from Chicago westward it will be all new territory. The roads traversed thus far were found muddy but of a character that will afford excellent going in July when the contest is to be run.

As the tour has been tentatively planned, it will cover a period of about 18 days and a distance of about 2,000 miles. This is a little longer in both time and distance than any former tour and, without being exactly rougher, it will afford a better test of cars under the rules. There will be two rests of two days each over Saturday and Sunday. One of these stops will be at Denver, where the motorists are raising a fund of $10,000 for the entertainment of the tourists, and the other will probably be at Minneapolis, a week before Denver is reached. The whole plan and route of the tour is as yet tentative and subject to change, according to conditions disclosed by the pathfinding trip. It may be discovered that some of the roads are impracticable, that some of the jumps are too long, or too short, or that in some place planned for an overnight stop the accommodations are insufficient. Not until after Mr. Lewis has completed his survey will the route be finally determined.

DETROIT BALL PLAYERS FLUSH WITH SPARKLERS

Bush at the present time has the distinction of carrying around more diamonds than any member of the Detroit team. He has a cluster of three-carat stones in his tie and he carries a sparkler in his hand which is worth a tidy sum.

To look at the prosperous Detroit bunch one would be led to think that a jewelers convention was in session. The diamond bedecked athletes attract no little attention. It is an easier task to mention who do not wear them than it is to give an extended list of those who carry sparklers.

Of the veteran pitchers, Mullin and Summers are most unpretentious this way. The diamonds in the Mullin family are worn by Mrs. Mullin while Summers has never hankered for a stone although well fixed to wear one.

M. Intyre, Killifer and Beckendorf do not wear diamonds although Matty and Red were participants in the world's series. Both used their money to another advantage. Killifer weighs his pile in lumber interests on the coast.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Ed. W. Smith of this city, who refereed the Gotch-Hackenschmidt wrestling match last year, will perform that office again in the championship battle between Gotch and Mahmout, to be held here April 14. Mahmout will wrestle Frederick B. Lake in an exhibition match before the Chicago Athletic club tomorrow night. Smith will act as referee.

BIG CANADIAN CRUISER FIRES ON U.S. VESSEL

tice the arrival of the Kestrel on the scene until the government vessel was without about three miles. Then the American ran along, picking up his five dories, the fishermen cutting their gear without wasting time to pull a fathom of it in. Within 30 minutes after the Kestrel was sighted, the last dory had been picked up and the schooner with her motor power working to its full capacity, and her sails spread to a fine western breeze, turned towards the highlands of the Pacific. The cruiser overhauled the American schooner, and by the time they were four and a quarter miles off shore the Kestrel was alongside and the captains of the two vessels were conversing.

Paid No Head to Signals

Captain Newcomb had been vigorously sounding blasts from his siren as the signals for the American to stop, but she kept on her course. The first round of the machine gun was fired when the race had but well begun, and the next two were directed to send the bullets across the bows of the Yankee vessel. But the captain of the latter made no attempt to stop. When Captain Newcomb got abreast the American he opened communication through a speaking trumpet.

"Stop or I will put a hole through you," called Newcomb.

"I don't think so," said Sinclair in a reply that came plainly over the water.

Then the big gun went off and a little section of the Woodbury's sail was in shreds. When the second gun of the Kestrel had been unswivelled and trained on the schooner Captain Sinclair realized that further flight was useless and surrendered. He refused, however, to help navigate his vessel to port and would not even make fast a hawser. His engineer declined to turn over the gasoline equipment. The warship then took the Woodbury in tow and head for Vancouver, arriving this morning, when the prize was tied up at a wharf.

The Woodbury is a schooner about 100 feet long and is of 120 tons burden. She has been fishing out of Seattle for a number of years. She had about 1,000 pounds of fish on board when taken. There was no time to clean the fish and the cargo was destroyed.

In an interview today, Captain Sinclair said:

"We left Seattle on Monday, April 12, and after a stay of two days at Bellingham, proceeded north with a crew of 25 hands all told. We were seized about 2:30 p. m. on Sunday, April 18. The Canadian cruiser steamed alongside and expected me to heave to. I asked why and was told that my vessel was under seizure. I ordered the engines stopped and the Kestrel sent her first officer aboard. I asked what the matter was and he told me I was seized and he wanted me to go into Bull harbor. I refused to do so, as I was in the Pacific ocean on the high seas, and so the Kestrel passed a hawser to my schooner and towed me to Bull harbor, where we stayed that night.

"As near as I can tell, I was steering a southwest course and was four or five miles in that direction from Haycock island when seized."

"Were you fishing at the time?" asked the correspondent.

Was Making Passage

"No, all my dories were aboard and I was making a passage. I told the first officer of the Kestrel, when he boarded me that I was on the high seas and he agreed that I was then in the Pacific and not in territorial waters."

"Is it a fact that the Kestrel fired on you?"

"I don't know anything about that. Some of my men told me we were fired on, but I am not prepared to say anything about that."

"It is your opinion that the seizure was unjustified?"

"We claim that when the Kestrel grabbed us we were on the high seas."

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The seizure of the American schooner Charles Levi Woodbury for alleged poaching will have a tendency to hasten a definite understanding between the American and British governments as to their attitude towards Hecate strait which the Canadians desire shall be regarded as "closed sea" and the right of fishing there denied to Americans.

The state department has tried repeatedly to obtain from Great Britain a definition of its attitude regarding this body of water the correspondent on the subject dating back 10 years but thus far without success. The United States insists Hecate strait is an open sea, but should the contrary view finally prevail it would have a serious effect on the fishing interests of Puget sound.

The strait lies between the mainland of British Columbia and Queen Charlotte island, and is 28 miles wide at its narrowest part.

The necessity for an early understanding on the vexed question is realized by both countries.

TAFT INDORSES WORK OF FORESTER PINCHOT

In Sympathy With Conservation Policies Agricultural Lands Will Be Opened.

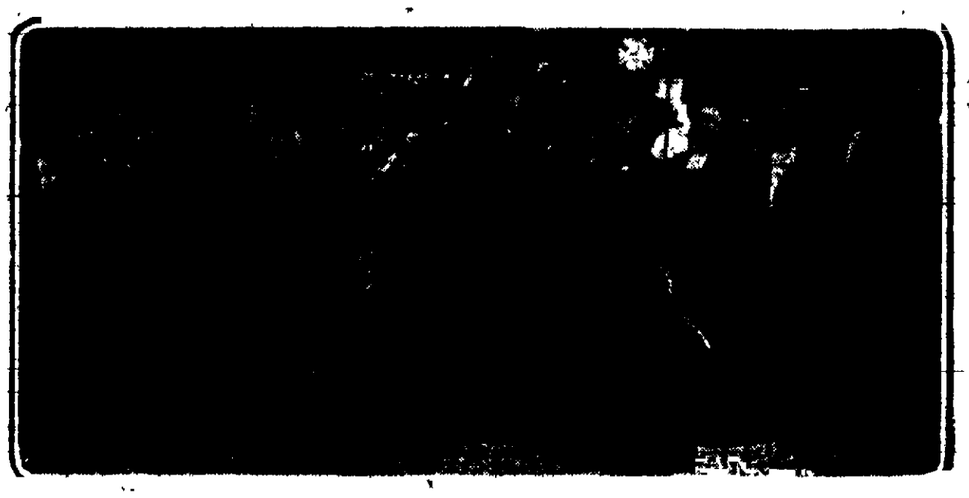
WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Taft's entire sympathy with the forest and conservation policies is announced and stories that vast areas are to be taken away from the national forests are denied in a statement regarding the administration's attitude, issued today by Gifford Pinchot. Mr. Pinchot says charges that the forests contain great areas of agricultural land are baseless and that any agricultural land whatever found along the boundaries of forests will be restored to entry.

"Repeated charges well known to be baseless have been made that the national forests contain vast areas of agricultural land. Whatever agricultural lands may be found along the boundaries will be restored to entry, for one of the strongest desires of the forest service now and in the past, is that any agricultural lands which may have been included in national forests should be open to use for agricultural purposes. Indeed, this is already provided for in the act of June 11, 1906. The forest service undertook the mapping of the national forest reserve boundaries on its own initiative in the regular line of its work and in pursuance of general plans laid years ago.

"I have been greatly interested, but not at all surprised, by the persistent circulation of these rumors. President Taft's statement to me, coupled with his authority to make it public should set them at rest once and for all. The present administration is in the fullest sympathy with forestry and conservation. Friends of these movements should recognize our obligation to the President for his prompt and direct support."

According to the federal bureau of animal industry, 3½ per cent of the cattle of the United States are affected with tuberculosis.

CUPID'S SPECIAL ARRIVES AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL



Mrs. Gill (marked with cross) and her party of matrimonially inclined Virginians.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20.—Mrs. Gill's excursion, popularly known as Cupid's express, arrived today from Richmond, Va. On board were twenty couples who will at once get married in the national capital. Each year this excursion arrives with a good quota of lovesick swains and lass who fleeing perhaps from parental ire flock to Washington, the best place to solve their troubles. Mrs. Gill has brought 286 couples to Washington to be married on her different excursions and has created a national name for herself as one of Cupid's agents.

This is the case wherein Mrs. Jones, who died last week, was left without food, and practically without water, for five or six days, her husband absolutely neglecting her, although when searched by the authorities he was found to have $350 in his pockets.

Jones' only excuse was that "she was goin' to die anyway, and nothin' wouldn't do no good." When arrested he protested, saying:

ONE-ARMED SOLDIER TAKES LEFT-HANDED OATH

Justice O. R. Dunnington Was Puzzled for a Time, but Affidavit Is Legal.

A "left-handed" oath was administered by Justice O. R. Dunnington yesterday, but all parties were satisfied, and left the court room in a happy frame of mind. It all happened because the person making the affidavit has only one arm, his right member having been shot off in the Civil war.

John E. McDonald, a grizzled veteran, desired to make an affidavit before the peace justice, regarding papers which he wished to send east. In administering the oath, Justice Dunnington ordered McDonald to lift up his right hand, following the usual procedure, when he noticed for the first time that the right sleeve of the old soldier hung limp at his side.

The justice was puzzled for a time, but, catching sudden inspiration, he instructed McDonald to hold up his left hand. The soldier did so, the oath was administered, and McDonald and his friend left the court room with the desired affidavit.

MOTHER GOING INSANE OVER WANDERING BOY

Country Is Being Scoured for Frank Cordes in Hopes of Saving Mind of Aged Parent.

Unless Frank Cordes, supposed to be in Colorado Springs, communicates with his mother in Ashkum, Ill., shortly, it is feared that Mrs. Cordes will become insane as a result of her incessant worry over the whereabouts of her son, who has been missing for four years. Cordes was indirectly traced to Denver, and is now thought to be in this city.

The following article regarding the disappearance was printed in the Chicago Inter-Ocean in a special dispatch from Ashkum, April 17.

"Efforts to find Frank Cordes, formerly of Ashkum, who has not been heard from by his parents since 1905, when he was in Omaha for a short time, have been redoubled owing to the serious illness of his mother, whose mind is becoming affected from worrying over her son's absence.

Worked in Kansas.

"Cordes, who was born in Ashkum in 1874, left his home seven years ago and went to Oklahoma. He later secured a position as stationary engineer at Armourdale, Kan. After the Kaw river flood of 1903 he went to Iowa. The last his parents heard from him, he was in Omaha to collect a note given by an Omaha bank in his favor. He told officials of the bank he was on his way to Denver.

"His mother fears that he is dead, or that he may have gone insane and been confined in some institution. The uncertainty of his fate has preyed on her mind until she is unable to sleep, and it is though she will become insane unless she hears from him.

"The quest for Cordes has been taken up by Clinton C. Comstock, a grain dealer of Ashkum."

The police all over the country have been asked to look out for Cordes, "as an act of humanity." Comstock has taken up the quest without recompense.

Cordes is described as being 35 years of age, of powerful frame, tall but slightly stooped, and with black hair and eyes. He has a scar about one inch long on the top of his head. He is deeply interested in machinery.

BAPTISTS PAY TRIBUTE TO WORK OF DR. GREGG

Impending Departure of Dean of City Pastors Regretted by Sister Denomination.

In appreciation of the services of the Rev. James B. Gregg to Colorado Springs as a pastor and as a citizen, covering a period of more than 27 years, which will close with his resignation from the pulpit of the First Congregational church to take effect on June 13, the following resolutions have been adopted by the congregation of the First Baptist church:

Whereas, The Reverend James B. Gregg has tendered his resignation as pastor of the First Congregational church of this city;

Resolved, That we, the members of this church, express to Dr. Gregg our appreciation of his service to the city during the unusual pastorate now drawing to a close. To have a share in shaping the best life of a community to the extent to which Dr. Gregg has influenced our city is given to few men in the Christian ministry, or indeed in any public service. Dr. Gregg very early in his pastorate won the respect and affection of a circle far wider than that of his own church, and the passing years have only increased that respect and affection. For more than a quarter of a century, from the pulpit, through the press and by his own exalted life, he has influenced, more powerfully than is easily expressed or realized, the life of the entire community. We extend to Dr. and Mrs. Gregg the assurance of our affectionate interest in whatever work the providence of God may continue to use them; and we pray, as we know will be true, that in the same generous measure in which they have helped all of us, may come to them the very best of heaven's own blessings.

Mr. F. G. Fritts, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My little girl was greatly benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative, and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is best for women and children, as it is mild, pleasant and effective, and is a splendid spring medicine, as it cleanses the system and clears the complexion. Sold by all druggists.

McDowell of this city, chairman of the state finance committee.

MRS. SLOCUM TO ATTEND CONVENTION IN ST. PAUL

Mrs. W. F. Slocum left last night for St. Paul, where she is to be a delegate to a convention of the National Young Women's Christian association of which she is a member of the executive board. This is one of the largest conventions of women held in the country. In addition to a large representation of city associations there will be several hundred delegates from the universities and colleges. The sessions will begin today and last one week.

WOESTMAN BUYS HOME IN PASADENA, CAL.

Colorado Springs Man Pays $28,000 for Property and Will Move Family.

E. F. Woestman, former president and chief stockholder of the Keystone grocery company of this city, and a well-known member of the Elks lodge, and also prominent in other lodge and business circles of this city, has decided to make his home in Pasadena, Cal., where he has purchased a $28,000 residence. He expects to leave for his new home in a few days. He and his family have just returned from California, where they have been for several months.

Came From St. Louis.

Mr. Woestman came to this city from St. Louis several years ago. In St. Louis, in connection with his father, he was associated with the milling industry. His father died a few years ago and he fell heir to a large part of a big estate, which includes a part of the property for years occupied, under lease, by the St. Louis Union Depot company, from which he derives a large dividend. While here Mr. Woestman invested his money in a hog ranch north of the city and in the Keystone grocery. His departure from this city will be regretted by his hundreds of friends and by the Merchants association of which he has been a prominent member.

Has Beautiful Home.

Mr. Woestman goes to California for the health of his two children. He has purchased a five-acre tract of land, covered with orange trees and centered by one of the most beautiful homes in that part of the west.

The purchase of this beautiful residence was given publicity on the first page of the Pasadena Evening Star of last Tuesday, in an article which was illustrated with two double column cuts of the home. The article describes the home as follows:

"The handsome, modern, 10-room house stands in a veritable tract of its own, five acres in extent. The house has every conceivable modern improvement, the bath rooms being an especial feature. The place is undoubtedly one of the strongest features of the city, and the grounds are splendidly laid out with all kinds of trees and shrubbery."

SAUSAGE AND CHEESE FOR CHRISTMAS GIFT

Fond Mother in Italy Remembers Her Son in Colorado Springs but in Vain.

Somewhere in this broad land is Nicola Amello, marketing, perhaps, that he had been forgotten by his folks on Christmas day, and they in return, in far-off Italy, are longing for some trace of him. The only clue to either is a canvas-bound package consigned from Italy and addressed to Nicola Amello at Colorado Springs. The package has been at the local office of the Globe Express company since early in January, and all efforts to locate the consignee have failed.

If Nicola Amello only knew what the package contained, he would lose no time in claiming it, even though he were miles away. Solicitous for the comfort of the inner and outer man, his folks had sent him as their Christmas token three rather evil-smelling, but no doubt edible, sausages, a suspicious-looking cheese, and a pair of warm woolen hose. All of these articles appear to have been home-made. Unless the package is soon claimed, it will be returned to the consignor or placed on sale to the highest bidder with other unclaimed packages.

CITY CLERK'S OFFICE SHOWS BIG INCREASE

The following summary of the collections of the city clerk's office, which was included in the public announcement last Monday night, of former President C. T. Fertig of the City Council, was omitted in the abstract published in The Gazette Tuesday morning:

Total	$39,774.63
For year 1907	24,368.71
For year 1908	26,343.81
Total	$70,603.52
Total amount collected in 1905 and 1908	56,774.63
Amount additional collected in 1907 and 1908	$13,828.89

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Colorado Springs Citizen.

Is your back lame and painful?

Does it ache especially after exertion?

Is there a soreness in the kidney region?

These symptoms indicate weak kidneys.

There is danger in delay.

Weak kidneys fast get weaker.

Give your trouble prompt attention. Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly.

They strengthen weak kidneys.

Read this Colorado Springs testimony.

Mrs. C. W. Brewer, 1509 Grant Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as their use in my family has demonstrated their curative powers in cases of kidney complaint. Ten years ago Doan's Kidney Pills were used in my house in a severe case of this trouble and they brought relief after doctors' treatment had proven useless."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PROF. HARSHBARGER TO SPEAK ON BURBANK

Eminent Horticulturist Will Give Illustrated Lecture Tonight Before Winter Night Club.

Prof. W. A. Harshbarger of Washburn college, Topeka, Kan., will deliver an illustrated lecture at a meeting of the Winter Night club this evening at the Antlers hotel. His subject is "Luther Burbank and His Work."

There is perhaps no one better qualified than Professor Harshbarger to speak of the achievements of the great nature wizard and to throw light upon his personality. He is an intimate friend of Luther Burbank and thoroughly familiar with his contributions toward a more productive and more beautiful world.

Professor Harshbarger is himself a scientist of high attainments in the field of horticulture, his research being of world-wide scope. His investigations have lately been centered in the rose, and in his garden are more than 100 varieties which he is studying. He is a recognized authority upon all branches of horticulture, and one of his coworkers in a recent reference to him said: "He is so thorough in all his researches that he could fill any vacant chair of horticulture waiting for the best of talent."

LESSEES ON GOLDEN DALE HAVE MUCH RICH ORE

Nearly $60 in gold to the ton has been returned from a two-ton trial shipment sent out by Lessees Wright and Russell on the Alsa R. claim of the Golden Dale Mining and Milling company. The ore comes from a depth ranging from three to 10 feet, and regular shipments are expected.

The Alsa R. claim of six acres is on Raven hill. President J. T. Milliken of the Golden Cycle Mining company is said to be heavily interested in the lease. The Golden Dale company refuses to grant a bond for the purchase of the claim.

We have recently stocked a good supply of Mothine in just the right size packages for family use; 10c per box. Just the thing to put in your furs, rugs, etc., when putting them away for safekeeping.

Exhibition Sale of "PERIOD" FURNITURE

People of education, taste and refinement are critical as to the furnishings of their homes, and particularly desire furniture representing definite "periods." Our Mr. Tucker, who has made extensive study both abroad and at homes, of the Elizabethan, Queen Anne, Louis XIV., Chippendale, Sheraton, Colonial, Early English and Mission, recently in his travel secured at a close out sale some remarkable examples of high grade furniture that we now offer to immediate buyers at prices greatly under the market.

In addition to the special Art Furniture, we are offering a line of Brass Bedsteads from $18 up that can not be found elsewhere.

W. F. M'DOWELL TO BE ASSISTANT TO BARTELL

City Street Commissioner W. H. Bartell has appointed W. F. McDowell as his assistant. McDowell is well known in Colorado Springs, where he has been a tourist agent for many years.

The county commissioners have taken no formal action regarding the appointment of county road overseer to succeed Bartell, although indications point to the selection of W. T. Rodney, as previously announced in The Gazette.

SEATS FOR BURNS JOHNSON BATTLE

The Burns-Johnson fight for the heavyweight championship of the world, whihc occurred in Sydney, Australia, last December, will be reproduced by moving pictures at the Opera House, Saturday, matinee and night. These pictures, which were taken by experts the morning of the fight, are said to be the finest of the kind ever attempted. They were made in the open air at 11 o'clock of a bright summer's morning, and show the smallest detail of the 14 rounds of fast fighting, together with interesting views of the gathering of the immense crowd, incidents that occurred preliminary to the fight, and the training quarters of the two pugilists. The entire entertainment covers two hours, and will be explained by an expert lecturer, who was present in Sydney and witnessed the fight from a ringside seat.

These pictures are being shown simultaneously in various parts of America and Europe by Mr. Hugh D McIntosh, who was the promoter of the fight, and also acted as referee. He is at present in the Philippines attending to arrangements for the battle between Jack Johnson and James J. Jeffries. It is certain that the white race will not allow the championship of the world to long remain in the hands of a colored man, and Jeffries has agreed to defend his title as undisputed champion of the world.

The negro is a magnificent specimen of the athlete, however, and the pictures show to the smallest detail the methods that he will be defeating

THE CRYSTAL

Is pulling good houses in spite of the bad weather so many people were anxious to witness the "Passion Play" that they were willing to brave the weather For the pleasure and accommodation of the church people the management has decided to give Thursday afternoon for showing the entire Passion Play No other pictures will be shown, and the most appropriate songs and music will be rendered If you haven't witnessed the play, don't miss it The way everybody is after that $12.00 dinner set which the Crystal gives away next Tuesday afternoon looks all right Take a look at them in the lobby The next will be a $10 set of hand-painted Japanese dishes

MAJESTIC SUNSHINE

Notwithstanding the "off-the-standard" weather which the unkind fates are imposing upon the good people of Colorado Springs, the standard of entertainment at the Majestic has not fallen off a whit, and each performance sees hosts of folks in attendance who take this method of forgetting the weather and all the depressing phases

of mind which go with the bad days

One may laugh away the most imposing woes if he has a good chance. See Dan O'Neil this week, and you will laugh until you cry—and then laugh again. This clever young man has a voice that reminds one of Billy Scanlon of old, the sweetest singer of his day; Dan also is a dancer who can make his feet talk in an extremely comical way. He is a dose of merriment which is warranted to take effect immediately and last for a long time.

Then, too, everybody likes to be startled. The seven performing African lions from Hagenbeck's Hamburg zoo will certainly startle you, and make you hold your breath while they are put through a series of feats which it has required extreme patience, courage and skill to teach them. They are the finest and most beautiful lions of Africa that have ever been seen here, and if you want to see a genuine sensation go and watch Tamer Glaver put them through their paces. They are on for half hour or more

They are direct from Europe

Carrie McMannus is demonstrating that she is entitled to be called "The Girl with the Sweet Voice"

If one had a "back-up" machine like the one that is being shown by the Majestistiscope this week, he could and would turn back to some real "City of Sunshine" weather.

FAIRYLAND THEATER

In spite of the continued stormy weather the favorite little playhouse is playing to packed houses this week. They certainly have a good bill on, consisting of three good acts, two reels of pictures and illustrated song Doris Donner, the little commediennne, is making a decided hit with the audience at every performance. The Van Sisters also receive their share of applause. Pete McCloud the Irish comedian, is making everybody laugh. We change our pictures and songs today.

Children admitted for 5 cents at every performance Adults, 10 cents. A few reserved seats, 20 cents.

10 REPRESENT SPRINGS AT PEACE CONGRESS

Former Mayor Heizer Named Representative Men to Attend Meeting in Chicago May 3-5.

Delegates from Colorado Springs to the second National Peace Congress to be held at Chicago, May 3 to 5, were appointed as follows by Mayor D. K. Heizer, shortly before his retirement from office:

President W. F. Slocum of Colorado College, the Revs. H. A Johnston, C. B. Wilcox, J. B. Gregg, J H. Franklin, H. R. Remsen, A. N. Taft, Adna W Moore, Father Huber, Charles F. Yeager, Supt John Dietrich, C B. Hall and Clarence P. Dodge. Former Mayor Heizer has been asked to become an honorary member of the congress.

To strengthen public sentiment on international arbitration is the principal aim of the second Peace congress. The first congress held at New York in 1907 was largely instrumental in the session of the second Hague congress, at which 44 nations were represented. Secretary of War J. M. Dickinson will preside, and the representation will comprise government officials from Europe, Asia and America. The speakers will be heads of the leading universities of this country and abroad, together with ministers and ambassadors from Germany, Japan, France, China, Sweden, Turkey, and Sir Wilfred Laurier, premier of Canada

NEW GAME FOR SCHOOLS

The new game of captain ball, not unlike the better known game of basketball but which can be played upon a much smaller space is to be introduced upon the playgrounds of the public schools by the board of education. The plan is to add variety to the games and incidentally economize in the playground space, which is somewhat limited on account of the overflow in the schools.

BOND ISSUE REQUIRED TO RELIEVE SCHOOLS

Van E. Rouse Makes Official Statement on Crowded Conditions in Several Institutions—

That a bond issue appears to be the only means of relieving the crowded conditions in the public schools of Colorado Springs, by providing for an enlargement of the present school facilities is the tenor of a statement issued yesterday by Van E. Rouse, secretary of the board of education in which he outlines the conditions and needs of this school district. The text of the statement follows

The board of education has published a notice calling a bond election to be held on May 3. In order that the public may become fully in touch with the conditions and needs of the district a statement as to existing school facilities from the office of the board may furnish information upon which the public could base an intelligent conclusion in reference to those needs

The demand for increased seating capacity seems to prevail in several sections of the district The Lincoln building has been in a crowded condition for some years past, and at present is using two extra rooms, neither of which is properly constructed nor conveniently located for school purposes Consequently the board feels that the demand made from that section is just and should receive relief

The crowded condition at the Lowell school has forced the board to use basement rooms and rooms detached from hallways, illy lighted and ventilated. Again, at the Washington, the demand is urgent that school having two rooms on the half day plan with an overflow from the eighth grade using a room not intended for recitations There is also a petition from the Washington school district on file, asking for the establishment of a kindergarten the planting of which would mean an additional room

At the same time the growing demand in the Columbia section, as also the territory contiguous to the Garfield, seems to make the demand on the board imperative, and the only avenue of relif seems to be that of a bond issue

The needs as above outlined appeal only to relief in the grades There is still another and an equally urgent necessity, that some steps be taken to relieve the present congested conditions at the High school The present building has a capacity of four hundred pupils, with an enrollment of about eight hundred, part of whom are accommodated at present in rented rooms. The board must very soon solve this problem, as well as the others which confront them

ENOS MILLS, NATURE STUDENT, IS COMING

Popular Forest Ranger and Lecturer Will Speak in Perkins Hall Saturday Night

On his way back from the Pacific coast, where he has been lecturing, Enos Mills, lecturer and forestry expert for the United States government, will arrive in Colorado Springs this week and deliver a lecture Saturday night in Perkins hall under auspices of the Colorado Polytechnic society

Mr Mills will speak on forestry and kindred topics and will illustrate his talk with stereopticon views of which he has a vast assortment taken during his extensive travels over the country. Both his lectures and pictures have attracted wide attention in all parts of the United States as he has a most original way of presenting his topics and speaks with the advantage of having his knowledge at first hand.

Original Nature Student.

He is an enthusiast on the subject of forestry and outdoor life generally and is noted as one of the most original students of nature of the present day. He has traversed the Rocky mountains on foot to a greater extent than any other living man and the anecdotes he tells of his ramblings add the zest of humor to his lectures. He has a rustic cottage in Estes park built with his own hands, in which he practically lived for some years and which he frequently visits still His lecture is open to the public and the impression he made here two years ago was so good that he will no doubt be greeted with a crowded house. Mr. Mills is also well known as the author of books and pamphlets on outdoor life and nature studies

MUSIC ARTISTS COMING UNDER ELK AUSPICES

Chicago Symphony Orchestra Will Appear in Opera House May 15. Proceeds Go to Fund.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, one of the most noted musical organizations in the country, will, with several soloists, appear at matinees and evening performances at the Opera House, on Saturday, May 15, under auspices of Colorado Springs lodge No. 309, B P. O. E. The proceeds of the concert will be devoted to a fund to take the Elks band to the grand lodge meeting of the Elks, to be held at Los Angeles in July. The orchestra is making its annual tour of the west; and all who have heard this superb organization of artists will again greet their appearance with appreciative pleasure

LEAGUE SPENT $1,243.98

Treasurer A. S. Blake Issues Financial Statement of Anti-Saloon Campaign—Funds Needed.

The report of Treasurer A. S. Blake of the Local Option league shows that $1,243.98 was spent during the recent campaign, which resulted in making Colorado Springs an anti-saloon territory. Of this amount, $416.80 was spent in advertising, $234.40 in stationary, stamps, etc., $106.85 for the salary of a substitute for the Rev. J. H. Ketchum in the sunday school work, $218.40 for stenographer and office help and various sums for office light, rental etc

Of the total of $1,243.98 required to meet the expenses the treasurer has $1,106.44 on hand leaving a deficit of $137.54 Treasurer Blake and the finance committee last night issued the following statement

"The amount subscribed in full was by only 125 of the entire army who voted to make this city anti-saloon territory so that the management feels that the small amount needed to liquidate the unpaid bills will be handed to the treasurer without personal solicitation and our friends will please consider this appeal as a personal one

"The subscribers have paid various amounts ranging from 25 cents to the $250 paid by one of our best citizens The success of the campaign is due, first to the good sense and judgment of our citizens and second, to the able management of Mr Ketchum and his assistants Revs E H Lilles and J H Franklin"

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Health Talks

No man is stronger than his stomach. Make your stomach strong and you thereby fortify your system against the attacks of a long list of diseases which originate in the stomach and must be reached, if at all through the stomach. Thus torpid, or lazy liver, biliousness, dyspepsia, impure blood and various skin affections originate in weak stomach and consequent poor nutrition. The same is true of certain bronchial, throat and lung affections.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

Strengthens the stomach, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood making it rich, red and vitalizing and thereby curing the above and kindred affections.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Golden Medical Discovery." The dishonest dealer sometimes insist that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him its only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If not promptly supplied trade elsewhere.

THE CHARTER.

Article IV.

THE Mayor of Colorado Springs, under our present system of government, occupies an anomalous position. Theoretically he is the chief executive officer of the city, but in reality many of the executive functions are exercised by the Council, which is, or ought to be, solely a legislative body. This absence of a clear line of demarkation between the rights and duties of the Mayor and Council has been a prolific source of trouble in the past, and with this lesson before it the Charter Convention was careful to define distinctly the status of each branch of the government.

Article IV, Section 23, says: "The Mayor shall be the chief executive officer of the City." He shall take care that the Charter, the laws of the State and the ordinances of the City are duly enforced. He may remit fines, etc., imposed for the violation of any ordinance, and have power to administer oaths. A report of such remissions, with his reasons therefor, is to be made to the Council at the next meeting.

The Mayor shall sign all contracts, bonds and other instruments in behalf of the City and take care that they are duly performed, and all legal processes against the City shall be served upon him. He shall be charged with the general oversight of all departments, boards and commissions, and be ex officio a member of each. He shall have the right to vote on all questions before the Council. He shall have power to appoint experts to examine the affairs of any officer or department of the City whenever he shall deem it necessary, and require any such officer or employe to exhibit his books and papers. Failure or refusal to exhibit books or papers so required shall be ground for removal.

At the beginning of each year the Mayor shall employ for a stipulated compensation a certified public accountant, who shall examine, at least twice each year, the books, records and reports of the Treasurer and of all officers and employes who receive or disburse city moneys. Such accountant shall have unlimited privilege of investigation to examine under oath or otherwise all officers and employes of the City, and failure on their part to give all required assistance and information shall be ground for removal. The report of the accountant is to be filed with the Clerk as a public record.

APPOINTIVE POWER OF THE MAYOR. It is provided that the Mayor "shall appoint all officers and employes of the City whose election or appointment is not otherwise expressly provided for in this Charter." The exceptions are few. The City Clerk is to be appointed by the Council, because he is the Clerk of the Council and it is proper that that body shall name its own employe. The Police Judge is to be appointed by the Council. The City Attorney shall be appointed by the Mayor, subject to confirmation by the Council, but otherwise all appointments not made under the civil service and those of a few unskilled laborers, are at the disposal of the Mayor alone.

Thus the responsibility for good or bad service on the part of the City's employes is definitely fixed, and the present haphazard, unbusinesslike method whereby everybody in authority can evade responsibility for the unsatisfactory service of subordinates by passing it on to somebody else, is done away with. However, the Mayor is not left free completely to disregard the wishes of the Councilmen for his appointments of the heads of departments, deputies and principal assistants are to be made upon the recommendation of the Commissioner of the appropriate department, who, of course, will be a member of the Council. Day laborers and unskilled workmen are included in the civil service may be appointed by the heads of departments.

REMOVAL OF EMPLOYES BY MAYOR. The Commissioner of a department may suspend any officer or employe in his department for a period not exceeding ten days, and the Mayor may suspend or remove any officer or employe for cause whenever in his judgment the public interests will be better subserved thereby. No officer whose place is created by ordinance shall hold the same for any fixed term, but shall always be subject to removal by the Mayor. This is an additional safeguard, for it does away with the evil, by no means infrequent, of a city official or employe who, having his appointment secure for a fixed term, thereupon believes himself free to disregard his superior. But if such employe knows that the tenure of his job is dependent on the fidelity of his service, and that he can be removed by the Mayor at any time for cause, he is likely to be more attentive to duty.

As a check on the Mayor it is provided that on request of the discharged employe he shall file in the office of the Clerk a written statement of the reason for which the removal was made. Another wise provision is the authority given the Council to remove any officer or employe by the affirmative vote of four members, thus providing a way to discharge an unsatisfactory employe in case the Mayor should refuse to take such action.

The Mayor is given the power to veto any of every item in an appropriation ordinance, "but such veto shall only extend to the items so vetoed, and those which he approves shall become effective and those which he disapproves shall not become effective, unless passed over his veto by the vote of four members of the Council." This is merely another part of the procedure by which the Mayor is made the executive officer of the city, the veto power corresponding to that which the President, as Chief Executive of the nation, exercises over Congress.

OFFICE WILL ATTRACT GOOD MEN. Under the Charter the Mayor of Colorado Springs will exert large powers and carry heavy responsibilities, and the Convention acted wisely in fixing his salary at a figure high enough to attract capable men. He is to receive $3,600, half of which is to be charged to the Department of Water and Waterworks, because the Mayor is to be Commissioner of that department and in charge of this most important of the City's assets. For years we have tried the old method of making the Mayor a mere figurehead, without any particular duties or responsibilities, paying him a small salary and constituting his office in such wise that it possesses neither the honor, the remuneration or the opportunity for usefulness to attract the class of men who really ought to be at the head of the government. The result has been almost uniformly unsatisfactory. No Mayor has ever retired from office with the full approval of the people. Sometimes it has been because he lacked the requisite ability, and sometimes because, however great his ability, the machinery of government itself prevented its fullest use for the public welfare.

The Charter changes all this. It creates an office with such powers and responsibilities as will make it one of high honor; it provides the Mayor with the means and opportunities to give the people a thoroughly efficient and businesslike administration, and finally it provides such compensation as may reasonably be expected to attract men of high character and ability. Thirty-six hundred dollars a year is not an extravagant sum, but considering the amount of the Mayor's time required and the high honor of his position it is ample. Perhaps we shall not be able at all times to secure the ideal man for the place, but there is no doubt that with reasonable vigilance on the part of the people we shall find men capable of filling the office with entire satisfaction.

EUROPE'S COURTS OF HONOR.

From the New York Evening Post.

If there is one thing that our commercial world needs more than quick, fair trials, it is a clear-cut code of honor, which is not only written but observed. Honest business men we have in multitudes, no less than Europe; but they suffer under the reputation of others against whom trade ethics are enforced only nominally, if at all. In Europe the courts of honor, which some of our exchanges have in miniature or in caricature, exist full grown. They prevent men from "deceitfully influencing quotations and prices, giving and accepting presents with the object of securing press statements in favor of or detrimental to certain undertakings; imposing conditions which are not compatible with business propriety, knowingly or through carelessness professing ignorance of the statements of prospectuses on the basis of which securities are listed on the exchange, and inciting persons to speculate on the exchange in those securities or products which are out of their line of business, when the broker uses methods which are unworthy of an honorable business man."

SO IT IS.

From Collier's.

The torch of truth sometimes drops a chalky or let fall a splash of coal oil. In one of our editorials in the issue of February 20 we said that in the brief case the public would be wise to see that if the upper court decided upon the merits of the case all points would be violently strained to reach a verdict satisfactory to Mr. Herrin, general counsel of the Southern Pacific Railroad company. This brought a rather sharp rejoinder from Mr. T. T. Williams, whose letter was dated New York. We were informed in language somewhat glowing that our characterization of the supreme court of California was all wrong; that there was not a man on the supreme bench of California against whom distrust or suspicion had ever been directed. Mr. Williams defended Judge W. H. Beatty, the chief justice, and Judge Frank Angelotti by name. We were asked politely to retract, else our "boast of justice and truth-seeking" were empty braggadocio and nothing more. Mr. Williams, it happens, is the business manager of the New York Evening Journal, and for years has been Mr. Heart's newspaper manager. Mr. Heart recently established close relations with Mr. Harriman's purse. Mr. Williams himself is the close and intimate friend of W. H. Herrin. When Francis J. Heney was shot down in the San Francisco court room, Mr. Heart's San Francisco Examiner office had to have police protection. The Examiner's circulation fell off so enormously that Mr. Williams and a New York staff were rushed to San Francisco to attempt a rehabilitation. There is no judge on the supreme bench of California who may defy the Southern Pacific political machine and hold the same office a second time. Collier's does not retract any of the language of its editorial of February 20. Instead, we repeat the belief that if Calhoun is convicted the supreme court of California will go any length to upset the conviction, and that for Ruef, whom it holds less dear, it will go far, although not quite so far as for Calhoun.

UNCLE WALT'S LAPORTA

WHERE THE BOLD GAME GROWS

The hunter's arrived on the African shore, all armed to the teeth and impatient for gore; with powder and bullets and shot by the ton, and a long snickersnee and an elephant gun. O well may the lion glance fearful around, and hunt, with his mate, for a hole in the ground; and well may the rhino a sycamore climb, to see if the Nimrod is coming on time; and well may the monkey from beast to beast go, and write life insurance at so much a throw! Full soon the poor hippo his last will have squirmed; he'll soon be nonexistent and all taxidermed! No longer through jungles the tiger will scoot; his form will be shipped to a famed institute, where four-eyed professors will maul the poor wretch, and lecture to students for hours at a stretch. The hunter's arrived on the African shore, and the jungles will never know peace any more.

The Daily Chit-Chat

Two things greater than all things are,
The first is love and the second, war:
And since we know not how war may prove,
Heart of my heart, let us talk of love.

Rudyard Kipling.

Elinor Hallowell Abbott in a recent story declares that woman's only business is the pursuit of man.

That's a very strong statement—an overstatement most of us would call it—but like all strong statements it contains an element of good suggestion.

For while love is not the only business of all women all the time it certainly is the business of all women some of the time, and of some women all of the time.

And since that's true who not go about it in a more businesslike fashion? Why not study our customers as we would if we were engaged in any other business?

That sounds cold blooded in theory but it doesn't need to be so in practice. It is nothing for a woman to be ashamed of that she hopes sometime to win the love of a good man. Why then should she be ashamed to learn how to please good men?

And a mighty good way to study this subject—call it that if you think "business" too matter of fact—is from the masculine point of view. You will find it amusing as well as instructive to some day ask your brother or cousin or impersonal male friend, if you chance to possess such a treasure as the latter, what he likes in women.

I asked a man who has a wide feminine acquaintance to tell me what he thought it was in a girl that particularly attracted men, and he gave me several "pointers" that many of the girls I know might apply with beneficent results. Aside from their supposed effect on the masculine contingent they would be good rules for general conduct.

"Be good looking and cheerful," was his first advice. Then as I raised my eyebrows over the universal feasibility of the first half of this suggestion, he expanded—

"I don't mean good looking in the sense of a French doll, but with the effect of health and life. No one wants to see a man or woman look as if he or she were going to drop dead the next minute. Look alive even if you feel 'down and out.'

"Smile once in awhile and appear interested in what's going on. Don't say 'yes' and 'no' when a man talks to you as if you were planning a new dress for next winter.

"Show an interest in what he is saying and what you are doing and a man won't know whether you're a beauty or not."

Encouraging, if true.

CAT IS MOTHER TO CHICK.

Plan Worked Well Enough Until Foster Child Became a Nuisance.

South Orange Dispatch to the New York Tribune.

Louis Becker, a florist, of the Hilton section of this township, is the owner of a cat that has been able to "mother" a chick at the same time that she is raising offspring of her own, and to bestow on the chick as much love and care as for her own. Rose is the name of the versatile mother, and now that the chick has grown so large that it is a nuisance about the house, Mrs. Becker is having a hard time keeping the two apart. The cat will not let the chick out of its sight, and if the chick can find out where its foster-mother is, thither it bends its pattering steps.

Mrs. Becker tried to put the chick out in the greenhouses back of the kitchen a few days ago, but the cat found out where the chick was, and, picking it up by the neck, carried it back into the house. Rose was not a mother at the time the chick was cast out by its own proud mother. Because the "ugly duckling" was in danger of starvation the family brought it into the house, where Rose had long laid away. From the first the two became fast friends.

ART IN GEOGRAPHY.

Crist, in the Brooklyn Eagle.

Secretary of State Knox has found a colored messenger in his new office who knows something of geography.

Alongside of the secretary's desk is a great globe, standing almost six feet high. The other day Mr. Knox consulted it to see if it were really true that the sun never sets on our dominions nowadays or to learn something else of equal importance. The Pennsylvania statesman is the pink of neatness, and was somewhat irritated to find that the big revolving ball had soiled his coat sleeve.

"William," he said, sharply to the messenger, and laying his finger on the globe, "there is dust there a foot thick."

"It's thicker'n dat, Mr. Secretary," replied the negro with that familiarity that comes of mingling with greatness.

"What do you mean?" demanded the premier.

"Why, yo'se got yuh fingah on de desert of Sahara."

Mr. Knox did badly at trying to suppress a smile.

"You'll find some on the Atlantic ocean, too," he remarked, as he turned to his desk.

ASSEMBLY AT CASCADE TO BE GREATER THAN EVER.

Eminent Religious Workers from All Parts of Union Will Gather Here in July.

A brilliant array of lecture talent, including many eminent religious educators and sociological investigators, has been secured for the Cascade Canon assembly to be held July 21-31 at Cascade canon, near this city. Although under supervision of the Baptist denomination of Colorado, the assembly is nonsectarian in views and national in scope. The aggregate attendance last year was 562 persons, but it is expected that the attendance will be much larger this year. The principal objects of the assembly are Bible study and the discussion of social and religious questions.

A special feature this year will be a sociological conference of two days under direction of Professor Albion W. Small, head professor of the department of sociology in the University of Chicago, who is also editor-in-chief of the American Journal of Sociology, published at Chicago. A number of Colorado people who are familiar with social conditions in the state will take part in the discussion.

Speakers of Prominence.

Among other speakers of prominence are Henry F. Cope of Chicago, secretary of the National Religious Education association; the Rev. H. T. Musselman of Philadelphia, a Sunday school specialist, who will conduct the course for Sunday school workers; Dr. E. A. Hanley, pastor of the historic First Baptist church of Providence, R. I., founded by Roger Williams in colonial days, who will conduct the course in Bible study; E. W. Stephens, a prominent layman from Columbia, Mo., who has just returned from a tour of the world to study religious conditions; Dr. M. D. Eubank of China, an eloquent speaker, who was with the assembly last year; Dr. M. P. Hunt of Louisville, Ky., pastor of the People's church, and Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city. Negotiations are pending for the appearance of Dr. G. W. Trewitt of Dallas, Tex., one of the most eloquent pulpit orators in the country.

Prospects Are Bright.

The management of the assembly is confident from the interest being manifested that it is only a matter of a few years until this assembly is one of the largest in the country. The attendance is coming from many of the outside states, attracted by the splendid course of instruction offered by educators of national prominence.

Other assemblies with the same beginning have achieved great success, notably the Presbyterian assembly at Winona, Ind., which had an attendance of only 40 the first year, but which now has an aggregate enrollment of 10,000. The same is true of the Methodist assembly at Grove, N. J., which has an enormous enrollment. The Cascade Canon assembly extends an invitation to representatives of all denominations, being in no sense a sectarian institution.

The program is to be enlarged at a meeting this week in Denver of the board of directors of which John Dietrich, superintendent of the Colorado Springs public schools, is a member. The Rev. J. H. Franklin, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, is president of the assembly, and Dr. E. M. Stephenson of Denver, is secretary.

"THE GIRL QUESTION"

Musical Comedy Is Met for This Week as a Hit with Large Audience.

The last musical comedy of the present season, "The Girl Question," was given at the Opera House last evening before a large audience. "The Girl Question" is by the authors of "The Time, the Place and the Girl" and "The Umpire," two lively, interesting and good musical plays. This is the first local production of "The Girl Question," although this attraction went to the coast once before last fall, and is now on its second return trip from that country.

The cast and production as given last night was practically the same as seen for a season in Chicago, and as seen in Denver last fall. The performance went smoothly and with great spirit, and there was a freshness about the production that is almost unusual for road attractions. Paul Nicholson is the star, if his role may be considered any more prominent than that of the large cast. Unaided by ridiculous costume, or grotesque make-up, Nicholson is a comedian of quiet, refined and effective methods. The balance of the cast, notably Nina Collins and Elsie Scott, keep the performance moving and the chorus gives several specialties decidedly original and unique. The Eddie Foy imitation and the typewriter girls are two especially good skits. The staging and costuming is adequate and some times more than adequate.

As a musical comedy, "The Girl Question" may not equal its predecessors, "The Time, the Place and the Girl," but it is a good performance, and while it does not solve the feminine question, and in fact only make one the more confused after seeing the bevy of attractive girls, it deserves its success.

WORK IS TEMPORARILY STOPPED ON THE HOOSIER

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, April 21—Work has been temporarily suspended at the Hoosier mine, on Tenderfoot hill, by Manager J. H. Edwards of the H. H. H. Mining and Development company, and the miners have been laid off. No reason is given for the shutdown, but it is understood that the leasing company is planning to operate on a more extensive scale, and a meeting is to be held in Denver this week.

LESSEES ON BURNS CLAIM CONTINUE HEAVY SHIPMENTS

Are Making Big Profits for Themselves and for the Acacia Company, Owning Corporation.

Special to The Gazette.

ALLEGHANY, April 21—The lessees on the Burns claim of the Acacia company continue to make heavy production, and are making big profits both for themselves and the owning corporation. A shipment of two cars recently sent out by Hastain and Johnson netted their operators in excess of $1,[illegible], and the royalty paid the company since the first of the month have been at the rate of $100 per diem. Practically every lessee on the Acacia estate is shipping, and the ore given to the valley mills and smelters is far above the average grade.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Difficulties Between Jo Dandy and New Haven Company Satisfactorily Adjusted.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, April 21.—The litigation between the Jo Dandy Mining company and the New Haven Gold Mining company, that has been pending in the United States courts since 1905, is reported to have been satisfactorily settled out of court. By the terms of the agreement, the Jo Dandy Mining company will purchase the buildings of the New Haven company, consisting of the Eclipse No. 1, a patented claim of seven and one-half acres adjoining the Jo Dandy mine on Raven hill. The full details of the settlement and purchase price have not yet been made public.

Both properties may be classed as producing mines, and will doubtless be operated from the main Jo Dandy shaft. The work of rebuilding the burned mine buildings at the Jo Dandy shaft has not yet been commenced but with the litigation settled it is expected that the work will not be long delayed.

WHEAT PRICES ARE HIGHER NEAR CLOSE

Part of Loss Sustained in Previous Day's Slump Regained. Corn Goes Higher.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Part of the loss sustained in the severe slump in wheat prices yesterday was regained today, owing to active covering by shorts, closing quotations showing net gains of ¼@¾c to 1¼@1¾c, compared with the previous close. Corn advanced to new high-record marks and closed at advances of ⅛ to ½c, compared with yesterday's final quotations. Oats also closed strong, and provisions were firm.

The wheat market was devoid of any sensational feature, and the volume of trading was small compared with the enormous transactions of the last few sessions. With the exception of a brief period at the opening, when prices ranged only a trifle above the low point of the previous session, the market displayed considerable strength, despite the preponderance of bearish gossip in the day's news. Buying of more than 1,000,000 bushels of the July delivery by one of the leading elevator interests here was the feature of trading and one of the chief reasons for the substantial upturn in prices. Additional rain was reported throughout the winter wheat belt in this country, including Oklahoma, where a drought had prevailed for a long time, while in the northwest the weather was said to be favorable for seeding, with the exception of a portion of South Dakota, where snow had interfered with farm work. The excellent outlook for the European crop also had a depressing effect. The Prussian report, which showed a deteriorating of 10 points in the condition of the crop of that country, compared with the same time a year ago, was the principal bullish influence. Although foreign markets were lower, they did not fully reflect the break here yesterday. At the opening, prices were ⅛@¼c higher to ¾c lower, with July at $1.12¾@$1.12⅞. In the first half hour July advanced about 1 cent, but reacted again on profit taking. Toward the end of the first hour, however, the market became strong again, and continued firm the remainder of the day. The high point for July was reached at $1.14⅛. Final quotations were at $1.13⅞@$1.14.

Corn for May and July continued its upward flight, the former advancing to 71⅞ and the latter to 69½. The market closed strong, at almost the top. Trade was active all day. Further advances were recorded in the price of oats, closing quotations showing net gains for the day of ⅛ to ⅜@⅝c, compared with yesterday's close. During the day May sold up to 56⅛ and July to 49⅝. At the close it was 55¾ for May and 49⅝ for July.

Provisions were firm all day, and closed 2½ to 5c higher.

PRIDE IN HER HUSBAND.

T. P. in M. A. P.

Sir Melville Beachcroft, who is a practical philanthropist and a social reformer of the useful type, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs. One chanced to remark that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning. "Well, now, I never cares about Sundays, but I allays do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt every Saturday afternoon, 'cos that's the time 'e is generally drinking and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight, I do like to see 'im look nice and clean."

STOCK MARKET SHOWS GREAT IRREGULARITY

Doubt and Uncertainty Increased by Mysterious Movements—Great Confusion.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Extreme confusion of the speculative temper was caused by the action of the stock market during the earlier part of today and the result was a declining tendency in the dealings and the adoption of waiting attitude to see what the mysterious movement might portend. Suspicion of manipulative purposes in some of the most obvious movements increased the feeling of doubt and uncertainty. Alternating declines and advances kept the market in such wavering state as is rarely witnessed. Some of the early selling of stocks was reported as coming openly from sources credited with leading the advancing movement.

The suspicious trading element saw in this selling a bull device to take the market away from the bears and to force the latter to sell short at low figures. The bears instead of taking courage from this appearance of liquidation of long stock therefore took alarm and bought to cover their short contracts.

Announcement of plans for a summer trip abroad by E. H. Harriman, and modified restrictions on the Erie bond issue by the New York public service commission, were unexpected developments. The rumors regarding Mr. Harriman's health caused some selling of shares in the companies with which he is most closely associated. The effect on Union Pacific was pronounced, and the weakness of New York Central also was traceable to the large expectations that have been formed of the effects to be looked for from Mr. Harriman's future activities in the management of that railroad. Relaxed requirements on the Erie to be complied with to secure permission for the proposed bond issue were considered sufficient to insure the success of a proposed financial plan. The Erie stocks responded, and there was some sympathetic effect in other parts of the list. A special source of speculative confusion was the erratic fluctuations in Reading.

There was considerable comment on the taking of gold here for shipment to Holland, which is a very unusual proceeding. It was inferred from this gold movement that Dutch investors in American securities had been sending home their holdings to market in New York, attracted by the high level of existing prices. The incident made a decided impression on speculative sentiment, owing to the substantial character attributed to the Dutch financial insight. A decline in the sterling exchange rate at Paris was towards the point calling for gold exports from New York, but the sterling exchange rate here made a compensatory advance. Weather conditions here were more favorable on grain crop prospects, and anxiety was less acute over the fate of the winter wheat crop.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,712,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

COLOR TREATMENT FOR THE INSANE

From Harper's Weekly.

Chromotherapy—the treatment of disease by color—is being tried at Bartonville, Ill., where eight solariums are in use for the benefit of the insane.

Dr. Zeller, the superintendent, is known as an opponent of the strait-jacket, the cell and other means of repression in cases of insanity. He advocates the use of the four colors, ruby, violet, amber and opal, and these are in use at the Bartonville hospital. The incandescent lamps, the glass shades, everything through which the light filters, is in one of the colors and the influence upon the patient becomes perceptible as soon as he enters the room.

Dr. Zeller reports that the insane display a certain gayety in the red room. The violet room produces an appeasing effect, and the opal and amber solariums are especially efficacious when the alienation is accompanied by tuberculosis.

PROSPECTING PERMIT ON HAPPY YEAR GROUP SECURED

If Lease Is Taken, Cyanide Mill Will Probably Be Erected to Treat Low-Grade Ore.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, April 21.—A prospecting permit with option of long-time lease, has been secured by local mining men on the Happy Year group on Raven and Bull hills. The property comprising about 23 acres was formerly owned by the Central Consolidated Mines corporation, but is now owned by the Happy Year Gold Mining company. Large bodies of low-grade ore have been opened up in a tunnel, driven about 800 feet into Bull hill and should the lease be taken up it is probable that a cyanide mill will be erected for the treatment of the low grades of ore locally.

People past middle life usually have some kidney or bladder disorder that saps the vitality which is naturally lower in old age. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects urinary troubles, stimulates the kidneys, and restores strength and vigor. It cures uric acid troubles by strengthening the kidneys so they will strain out the uric acid that settles in the muscles and joints causing rheumatism. Sold by all druggists.

There are said to be 1,041 women architects, 3,373 clergymen, 786 dentists, 409 electricians, 84 engineers, 2,196 journalists, 1,010 lawyers, 327,613 teachers, 74,813 bookkeepers, 25,246 clerks, 946 commercial travelers, 1,307 officials in banks, 3,433 manufacturers, 19,908 packers and shippers, 86,118 stenographers, 22,656 telegraph operators, 323 undertakers, 845 carpenters, 167 masons, 1,750 painters and glaziers, 126 plumbers, 1,300 miners and 133 blacksmiths.

JET WITH LINEN—THE NEW FAD.

Some of the linen coat and skirt suits that are being finished for Easter trousseaux are trimmed with jet buttons and have turnover collars faced with black linen, a little black silk necktie completing the dashing effect. The linen suit shown light the new bygone pink shade, and the jet buttons and watch chain, combined with the black tie and collar facing make a very smart effect. Biscuit and Havana brown linens are also seen with these black trimmings and over white linen and plaid suits still have the somber, [illegible] orientation.

An Ad That Pulled

The firm that inserted this ad in a certain daily newspaper had never advertised for a boy before.

They had always depended on hiring some boy in the neighborhood or some youngster who chanced to come in and ask for a job.

But those boys always proved unsatisfactory. They were not in the game in real earnest. Sometimes they would work for a few weeks, and then would come the trouble and worry of breaking in a new boy.

The boys who answer want ads, however, mean business. They are workers, regular little hustlers that come into your store and take hold of things in a way that will astonish a merchant used to the old method.

Try an ad like the above. It brought the brightest boys in the city to one advertiser and it will do the same for you. Remember, a good boy costs no more than a poor one but you have to know where to find him, that's all.

WIFE PREFERS CHARGE

Says Husband Threatened to Kill Her With Butcher Knife as Result of Drink.

Charles Lewis is again doing penance in the county jail for permitting booze to get the best of him. On complaint of his wife, who charged that he threatened to kill her with a butcher knife, Lewis was arrested yesterday morning. Monday morning, professing eight different kinds of religion, Lewis was released from the county jail, where he had been serving 30 days on a disturbance charge. He vowed that he would never get drunk again. But he fell from the water wagon and is again wrestling with his conscience and the ghosts of broken promises in a prison cell.

JOSEPH R. WALL,
Prominent Attorney, Who Has Been Elected City Attorney of Colorado City.

City Clerk I. S. Nichols is passing around the cigars, not to celebrate any great event, but merely because he now has possession of the city safe in which his books are to be kept. At the meeting of the city council Tuesday night, Clerk Nichols asked for permission to move the safe to his office. Alderman A. J. Rudell suggested that the safe properly belonged to the city treasurer. The city treasurer has offices with Mr. Rudell. The council finally voted to give the safe into the keeping of the clerk.

The funeral of Mrs. A. B. Young will be held from the Pinium undertaking parlors today at 2 p. m., the Rev. A. J. Waller officiating. Her son, Julius Young, arrived Tuesday night from Texas.

Miss Helen M. Haynes, 35 years old, sister of Miss Annie E. Haynes, who is a teacher in the public schools in Colorado Springs, died at her home, 817 E. F. st. boulevard, yesterday at 1 a. m. The body was sent to Denver for cremation and the ashes will be taken to her former home in Cleveland, O.

Mrs. D. T. Mitchell and daughter, Gladys, of Cripple Creek, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ingersoll. Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll have been quite ill for some time.

Mrs. C. Smith, 308 Monroe avenue, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Kimmerling, in Glenwood Springs.

All members of the Degree of Pocahontas are asked to attend the council meeting Monday evening. Important business will be transacted.

In a runaway in the Garden of the Gods yesterday morning, J. S. Jewett was thrown from his buggy, sustaining a broken arm.

Homer Cooper and Miss Zella Nichols, both of Colorado City, were married last night at 7 o'clock by the Rev. J. H. Franklin at his home, 218 East Cache la Poudre street, Colorado Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will reside at Colorado City.

The funeral of Mrs. A. B. Young of Colorado City, who died last Tuesday, will be held from the chapel in Pinium's undertaking establishment at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Waller will officiate. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN

Manitou Council Assumes Office and Names Officials and Committees.

Manitou's new corps of officers assumed their duties at the regular meeting of the town board Tuesday evening. There was only one change in the board, C. J. Skamser taking the place of William Paulson. After the oath of office had been administered by H. S. Francisco to the newly elected trustees, clerk and recorder and treasurer, an election was held resulting in the following being chosen: Mayor pro tem, C. A. Pollen; marshal, George L. Columbia; street and water commissioner, W. H. Fray; police magistrate, H. S. Francisco; surveyor, E. A. Sawyer; physician, Dr. H. M. Ogilbee; plumber, M. Douglass; fire marshal, Winfield D. Scott.

Mayor Wilson announced the following standing committees:

Finance—E. E. Nichols, W. B. Kirby, William Lennon.

Street—William Lennon, W. B. Kirby, C. A. Pollen.

Water Works—C. A. Pollen, E. E. Nichols, C. J. Skamser.

Police—W. B. Kirby, W. A. Tracht, William Lennon.

Fire department—C. J. Skamser, W. B. Kirby, W. A. Tracht.

Sanitary and Sewers—W. A. Tracht, E. E. Nichols, W. B. Kirby.

Ordinance and Printing—W. B. Kirby, C. A. Pollen, C. J. Skamser.

Cemetery—W. A. Tracht, C. J. Skamser, C. A. Pollen.

Public Ground and Buildings—E. E. Nichols, W. B. Kirby, William Lennon.

S. W. Wright and The Lennon Drug company were each granted a drug store license.

H. E. Albrecht was granted a six months' saloon license, application for the same having been made at a previous meeting.

Property owners residing in the vicinity of Spring street had a petition before the board asking that that thoroughfare be opened south of Ruxton avenue. This was referred to the street committee for investigation.

Requests were also made for street crossings on Ruxton avenue and at the west end of Spencer avenue. The street committee will give this their attention.

A new ordinance governing auction sales licenses was before the board but will be taken up and acted upon later.

After a big grist of bills had been allowed adjournment was taken and the board will act on the $14,000 bond issue as soon as possible.

Mrs. E. Burnett and children have gone to Illinois to remain for a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Burnett have been in Manitou for the last year and recently purchased property in Colorado Springs. Mrs. Burnett will have their household goods shipped from Illinois to Colorado Springs and the family will move there as soon as the goods arrive.

W. D. Sawin is at present taking the school enumeration. He has until May 1 to complete the work.

A card party was held at the parlors of the Cliff house yesterday afternoon. There was a large number present and a nice sum was realized which will go to the organ fund of St. Andrew's church.

Another Raymond-Whitcomb excursion will arrive at the Cliff house tomorrow evening and remain until the following Tuesday. This will be the largest excursion party that has stopped at the Cliff so far this year.

A WORD FOR THE SWAMPS

Valuable Moisture Storers; Capable of Producing Profitable Crops.

From the New York World.

This country has about 77,000,000 acres of swamp land, nearly all of it in the Mississippi valley and along the Atlantic coast and nearly all reclaimable. It is stated that this great and potentially fertile area might be drained and added to the arable territory of the country, making a really immense contribution to our national wealth. But is it certain that we should reap as well as gain by the process? Swamps have their influence in regulating the humidity of a district and in preventing the too rapid escape of water into the rivers, and thence into the sea.

Their function in thus storing moisture until it is needed is very like that expected of the big irrigation dams which, at great expense, the government is building in the west. They have storing capacity that retains within reach of the farmer's fields the water which would be carried to the sea and lost were all the water running water.

Thus there are general uses in swamps which disappear when they are drained. Is there no way of getting out of marshy areas, so that it may be worth their owners' while to keep them as they are, while permitting them to conserve the general welfare? Doubtless there is, although very little effort has been made to develop it in this country. China has cultivated, along the grand canal, from time immemorial the arts and practices of aquatic farming.

Some Suggestions.

Professor Herbert Osborn, in an article in a recent Popular Science Monthly, makes a number of suggestions as to how an annual return could be got from swamps. His most ingenious but not most practicable one is that marshes might be converted by the use of suitable dredging appliances, into alternate strips of land and water, the latter portions might be utilized for the cultivation of such intensive crops as celery, asparagus, onions, strawberries, the fertility being replenished by the use of dredged muck from the marsh may be an asset.

water strips; while the latter might be utilized for the culture of fish, frogs, clams, turtles, ducks, etc.

This gridiron scheme of land and water alternate is almost too methodical, and yet, undoubtedly there are swamp crops and products which might be more generally raised. One of them is watercress. Another is cranberries. Another is the basket willow. The marsh grasses, cat-tails, rushes and slough grasses are used for matting, binding twine, carpeting and furniture. With all our immigration, there should be a better market for the pond carp than there was a generation ago, when it was first introduced here. Crayfishes, fresh-water clams, frog farms, turtle farms and fish farms are all subjects matter for economic enterprises that presupposes utilizing still water, rather than draining it off. Professor Osborn even suggests the cultivation of the alligator, the beaver, the muskrat and possibly the otter, the muskrat is more or less edible.

The American is not sentimental, and he has evil memories of the malarious swamps that retarded his conquest of the continent, yet it is pertinent that he should be reminded that even a

ANY OLD DOG WILL DO

Postmaster Manley Will Swap His Job for a Mongrel.

From the Washington Star.

WINSTED, Conn.—Henry S. Manly, town constable, board of health and auctioneer, who has been in charge of the postoffice in Sandisfield, southern Berkshire county, since the death of the aged postmistress, Miss King, a few months ago, has advertised as follows:

"Wanted, a mongrel dog—any old dog—in exchange for a postoffice. Any one wishing to make such a deal will do well to let me hear from them right away quick. I could kill the dog, but don't see how I can the postoffice."

Mr. Manly wants his release as acting postmaster. The office pays about 10 cents a day in winter.
